ALL committee today, described the commission proposal as "an intriguing idea." But Rusk said today that for more than a year the executive branch has had a very competent group making an intensive study of these matters. He did not further identify the group. "They have been in touch with experts outside; they have visited universities and they have searched the literature for possible new ideas," Rusk said on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

He also said he has discussed recently with President Johnson "the desirability of systematizing outside advance in the general areas of the world." He added: "I think it is very likely that we shall do this somewhat more systematically than we have done before."

Humphrey's Support
—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was reported actively supporting the proposal to create a commission. Although he was silent about Johnson's reaction, Humphrey's endorsement was viewed as indicating a willingness by the administration to explore new avenues in Asian policies.

—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said Humphrey's support encourages him to believe such a policy review may materialize. "I certainly think we need to have a searching look at possible future relations with Communist China," he said. Rusk disagreed with Sen. J. Turn to Page 8, Col. 1

Cancer Patient Dies 8 Weeks After Surgery

Doctor Says Allen
Was Hopeful About
Recovery Chances

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Up to the end he had a hopeful, optimistic attitude." This was how Dr. T.E.A. von Dedenroth recalled the optimism of Robert Allen, 29, who died Sunday, ending his fight against a rare form of bone cancer.

Allen, suffering from osteogenic sarcoma, underwent a transfer of cancerous tissue with Harry T. Griffith, 63, of Flourtown, Pa., about eight weeks ago at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.

Allen never knew that Griffith, a former minor league baseball player, died April 25. Allen was admitted to a Tucson hospital Friday. Dr. von Dedenroth said the cancer had spread too far through Allen's pelvic area.

"He had been under hypnotherapy treatment," von Dedenroth said, "and thought that he had this thing licked."

Eynopsis Treatment
The doctor said that Allen, who returned from Buffalo 12 days ago, had been under a hypnopsis treatment which enabled him to develop a positive outlook toward his disease.

Even when Allen's condition worsened last week, requiring his hospitalization, he "felt he was merely recuperating from the operation," von Dedenroth said.

Political Storm Rocks Ruling Junta in Saigon

Bombers Hit Missile Sites Close to Port

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers knocked out two more Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam and chased off a flight of Communist MIG17s southeast of Hanoi, the U.S. Command reported today.

Navy A4 Skyhawks hit a surface-to-air missile site 12 miles north-northwest of Haiphong Sunday, the U.S. command said, while Air Force pilots reported they destroyed a SAM site 30 miles north-northeast of Hanoi.

It was the closest penetration so far to Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port.

A military spokesman said U.S. fliers evaded 11 missiles fired from sites in three different areas during air strikes Sunday.

MIG'S Flee
The spokesman said Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs encountered the MIGs 70 miles southeast of Hanoi. He said the American pilots closed in, but the MIGs turned and fled before they could be engaged.

The missile sites were hit Sunday during a break in the monsoon rains. American planes flew 51 missions against the Communist north after a week of limited assaults because of the weather.

The American fliers also kept up their pummeling of bridges and highways in the north to cut further supply routes to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, and Haiphong.

An Air Force spokesman reported Sunday that three weeks of raids had severed all the main road and rail supply routes between Hanoi and Haiphong and to Red China.

Movement Slowed

"All these arteries can be passed, but I think it will slow down the movement of supplies. They will have to find some other means — by junks or barges," the spokesman said.

He said aerial photographs confirmed the destruction to bridges and highways leading to Hanoi from four directions.

Although North Viet Nam claimed that six U.S. planes were shot down over the north Sunday, the U.S. Command reported only one loss — a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief that was hit during strikes.

Critical Report

LBJ Endorses Huge Education Aid Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson sent Congress today an advisory council report endorsing massive federal aid to education, yet finding much to criticize about the first year of the administration's current billion-dollar program.

Tougher Guidelines
The 13-member panel's criticisms included these:

Johnson, in a letter transmitting the report, emphasized appropriate program funds until Sept. 23, after the start of the school year. It urged action assisting elementary and secondary education.

The 33-page report was prepared by the National Advisory Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children — students handicapped by poverty

Nasser Urges U. S. to Keep Up Viet Nam Activity

CAIRO (AP) — The United States is encouraged to continue military activity in Viet Nam because the Soviet Union is in no position to issue an ultimatum for the withdrawal of American troops. President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic said in an interview made public today.

He also attacked U.S. policy toward Communist China.

Nasser blamed the dispute between Peking and Moscow for the Soviet Union's inability to give the United States an ultimatum to withdraw its troops from Viet Nam like the ultimatum it issued during the British-French invasion of Suez.

Nelson Moves to Ban Ships From Dumping Sewage Near Superior

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaints from Superior city officials resulted Sunday in Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., asking the Public Health Service to prevent ships from discharging followed by an upturn when the sewage near a municipal water intake in the Duluth-Superior harbor.

Nelson said Superior officials have protested repeatedly about a dangerous pollution build-up in the area.

Nelson said both Minnesota and Wisconsin are to blame for the pollution which comes from industries and communities upstream along the St. Louis River, from storm and sanitary sewers and industries along the lake front.

General Motors to Idle Eight Assembly Plants

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp plans to idle eight of its 23 auto assembly plants for one to three days during the re-maining 16 working days in May.

The firm said Saturday the cutbacks were being made to balance inventories with estimated demand for new cars.

A first cutback announced after it was under way last week caused a drop in GM prices on the stock market. But this was followed by an upturn when the firm said all 23 plants would return to operation today.

None of the other major American auto makers, Ford, Chrysler or American Motors, have announced production changes.

The United Auto Workers union said most of its members would be paid 90 per cent of their normal weekly wage, even if put on short work weeks.

Ky Comes Under Attack After Saying He Will Stay for Another Year

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky came under attack from he was misunderstood. Ky told a news conference today following his declaration: "I expect to stay in power for at least another year. There is no doubt about that."

Informants said some of Ky's fellow generals considered the statement likely to endanger the delicate political balance that has kept them in power despite Buddhist agitation. Ky was reported to have made the declaration without consulting them.

Government censors cut the statement from the Vietnamese language press in an effort to minimize the political repercussions. Nevertheless, it spread by word of mouth through Saigon. Political groups threatened to counteract against the military government.

Buddhist's Reaction
The strongest reaction was expected from Saigon's influential Buddhist leadership, which has demanded an early return to civilian government.

As the new storm erupted around him, Ky lapsed into silence. He ordered his chauffeur to drive on when newsmen converged on his car for an explanation of his intentions.

One Buddhist leader, Thich Thien Minh, told a crowd of 5,000 persons in Da Nang that the Buddhists would organize another wave of protests if the government backed down on its pledge to hold elections for a national assembly next fall.

Reversal Expected
Minh, leader of the youth movement of Saigon's Buddhist Institute, is a protégé of the politically powerful monk Thich Tri Quang, principal figure behind the recent unrest that forced the junta to pledge elections at the end of the summer.

The Buddhist leader in Da Nang, Thich Minh Chieu, told a newsman that the 35-year-old premier and air force commander had made many declarations in the past and later withdrawn them.

"I expect he will reverse this declaration also," the monk said. But he warned: "The government has said there will be elections in three to four months. If the elections are not held, there may be a reaction." Chieu appeared to be alluding to Ky's threat to seize Da Nang and other northern Buddhist hotbeds last March and execute

Rusk Expects Fall Elections For Viet Nam

Says U. S. Stand
In Asia Has Full
Legal Justification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk testified today that the United States has full legal justification for its support of South Viet Nam.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said "this position is unconscionable."

Morse said he would move formally to have hearings on what he called the illegality of American moves in supporting "this dirty war in Southeast Asia."

He ran into objections from various members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to taking up the issue immediately.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., bared in instead on the matter of what South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky actually said about holding office for another year.

Expects Election
Rusk referred to a transcript — he said he didn't know whether it was complete — of what the premier said. And he repeated what he said Sunday, that Ky had said he would retain office "until the National Assembly of 1967."

Fulbright wanted to know whether Rusk really believed there would be free elections in the near future. The secretary said he thought there would be by September.

With reference to the legal basis for U.S. actions in Viet Nam, Rusk skimmed over what he said was a lengthy presentation that was being submitted in writing, and said:

"The military actions of the United States in support of South Viet Nam, including air attacks, are well-established in international law by collective defense against armed aggression."

Film on Bullfighting Raises British Storm

Dispute Over Documentary 'Matador'
After Laborite Calls for Official Ban

By JAMES F. KING
LONDON (AP) — A controversy has developed in Britain over whether a documentary on bullfighting should be shown on television. "Matador," filmed in Spain, is described as technically brilliant and acknowledged as "reasonably gory."

The dispute over the film has reached the top echelon of the government-subsidized British Broadcasting Corp. Several top BBC producers have threatened to resign if it is suppressed.

Calls For Ban
Marcus Lipton, a Labor member of Parliament, called on the postmaster General, who is overseer of television in Britain, to ban the film.

Lipton is a patron of the International Council Against Bullfighting.

The BBC Board of Governors has reviewed the film twice, but the chairman, Lord Normanbrook, says no final decision has been made.

Fair Appraisal
One BBC executive, who has seen the film, described it as "a brilliant, possibly controversial, but undoubtedly fair documentary on bullfighting."

"If you are going to do a fair documentary on a subject like this, it won't come out like a piece on breeding pigeons. Bullfighting is a bloodthirsty business. You can't show just the glamor."

Earlier this year, a row developed over "The War Game," a simulated documentary about the effects of a nuclear attack on Britain, filmed in horrifying detail. The BBC refused to show it. A storm of protest blew up. Pacifists in particular complained, arguing the public should be shown the possible effects of a nuclear attack. This film is now being shown in London movie houses.

Hill Country, LBJ's Texas, Is Featured

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 — Channels 4-5-7 — The Hill Country: Lyndon Johnson's Texas is a special which has the President in Stetson and boots roaming the land he loves. His off-the-cuff comments are about as political as a tired possum. He sees the Pedernales River as a place where he put his feet in the water when he was four and recalls that his grandfather fought the Indians. In one of the more touching moments, he takes reporter Ray Scherer to the family cemetery and points out where he will some day be buried. (Color)

6:30-7 — Channels 4-5 — Hullabaloo has a bouncy session with George Maharis, once King of the Road as the star of Route 66, singing and dancing to tunes like "Teach Me Tonight" and "Something's Gotta Give," and a tribute to Bob Dylan. Others are Dionne Warwick, the Animals, the Gentrys and Joe and Eddie. (R-Color)

8-9-30 — Channels 2-7-12 — The Andy Griffith Show brings back one of its most popular shows of the season. Andy is asked to have his life story told in film and this encourages him to take his family on a trip to Hollywood. (R-Color)

8-9-30 — Channels 11-4-7 — A Man Called Shenandoah is again on a mission — this time to find a historian who supposedly visited a fort where he was once stationed. There are no real surprises here (of course our hero isn't going to find but who he is) but there is some good acting, especially by Jeanette Nolan, as a wiry postmistress.

8-9 — Channels 4-5 — The Andy Williams Show again has an outing of superb quality, with guests Buddy Greco, Trini Lopez and Jackie and Roy. There is a raucous party atmosphere about the session set in a large apartment which kids a "Playboy" penthouse. (Color)

9-10 — Channels 11-4-9 — The Avengers are after a slippery Iron Curtain spy in "Two's a Crowd." Heroes John Steed and Emma Peel are at their cunning best trying to keep tabs on a Russian colonel and dodging some rather diabolical espionage booby traps.

Vanishing Wallet Mystery Solved

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The mystery of the vanishing wallets at the Piedmont Hotel has been solved — at last.

A crew tearing down the 64-year-old building found nine or 10 wallets and purses in an acoustical ceiling. They contained no money.

"We figure they were hidden there by thieves," said R. L. Atiken of the salvage company. "All they had to do was push up a tile in the ceiling, throw in the wallet and let the tile back down."

Movie Director Robert Wise, left, was feted at an unexpected and belated celebration in honor of his winning the Academy Award Oscar as the best director of the year. The celebration was in Hong Kong where Wise is directing a new movie. The traditional "lion" and firecrackers were hidden aboard a replica of a Chinese river gunboat used in the movie. Wise was cited for his work in "The Sound of Music." (AP Wirephoto)

New Meter Maid in Chicago Writes Out Ticket for Kerner

CHICAGO (AP)—Deborah Jean Swain, one of the Chicago police department's new meter maids, wrote out a parking violat- ing ticket Friday evening for Gov. Otto Kerner's official limo- usine.

Afterwards, Miss Swain, told what she had done, said, "Gee!"

She had finished writing the ticket, citing the governor for parking at 6:30 p.m. in a zone restricted against parking be- tween 4 and 7 p.m.

Then state police Sgt. Joseph Camphouse arrived from a nearby restaurant. The gover- nor was attending a meeting a few blocks away.

"This is the governor's car," said Camphouse.

"Gee," said Miss Swain et.

Throw Away Your Denture Adhesive

New Dental Discovery Ends
Need for Pastes and Powders

New York, N. Y. (Special)—After years of research, scientists have discovered an entirely new sub- stance to make false teeth fit beau- tifully. Denture wearers report such success with this new sub- stance in refitting loose dentures that they no longer need paste and powder adhesives.

This new dental discovery is a soft, pliable plastic that is applied directly to dentures from the tube. User then inserts dentures into mouth and bites down. Instantly, this new substance molds to the exact contours of mouth and gums, holding dentures firmly in place through soothing suction— so powerful that even those with difficult lowers can laugh, talk and eat anything with complete con- fidence. Looseness, slipping, and clicking disappear. Sore spots are quickly relieved. One application lasts weeks, stays soft and pliable in use. Nightly cleansing does not wash it away, yet it is easily re- moved when desired. It will not harm plates. This substance makes it possible to refit and reline worn dentures at home, saving over $100 on costly relining work.

This new substance is now avail- able at drugstores under the name Cushion Grip® with a full money-back guarantee. Get Cushion Grip today and end the need for paste and powder ad- hesives forever!

Your Problems

Woman Finds Outlet for Love By Caring for Other's Babies

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may be one of the strangest letters you have ever received. I hope you won't think it is too strange to print because I suspect other mothers have the same problem but refuse to admit it.

My husband and I raised our four children to be independent and self-reliant. Everyone told through giving! And your doctor deserves a standing ovation for coming up with the ideal solution to your problem. Cheers for him and hooray for you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS. Recently I took a job distributing phone directories. The job turned out to be interesting as well as educational. I wish everyone would try to deliver phone directories for just one day. They'd have new respect for the postman and other delivery people.

It is shocking that thousands of residents don't display their house numbers either on the mailbox or anywhere else. How do they expect anyone to locate them? I had to enlist the help of neighbors in a great many cases. I asked one woman who had no number on her porch or mailbox how she got her deliveries. Her answer was, "They figure it out somehow." Why should they have to "figure it out?" It seems to me that the burden should rest on the residents and not the carriers.

Please print my letter. It is the surest route to millions of eyes that I know of. — Disgusted with People us we did a wonderful job. As the children grew older I began to wish we hadn't done such a good job. I resented their independence. I wanted them to need me and ask for my advice. Before long I began to meddle in their affairs. I even tried to take over their children.

After a run-in with my daughter-in-law I decided to talk to my doctor. He told me I had an over-supply of mother love and that I needed another baby — which was impossible at my age. So he suggested an alternative. He sent me to the welfare people and I obtained a child care license. I put an ad in the paper and within three days I had a 13-month-old baby boy. Two weeks later I advertised for a second baby. Now I have two little boys and I'm happier than I've been in years.

The mothers of these children say I am the answer to their prayers. I know they are the answer to mine. When these mothers take their babies away I will get replacements. There will always be mothers who must work and babies who need a mama-substitute. This is my specialty.

My relationship with my own children is better than ever. And I have no time for aches and pains or crying spells. How I wish I had seen a letter like this in your column five years ago. It could have saved me a lot of unhappiness. — Spark Reindred

IT'D BETTER GET THIS HOUSE CLEANED UP

by Nellie 5-9

Dear People: The moment you finish reading this column, go outside and see if you could find your home if you didn't know where you lived. If your residence is not properly marked, run — don't walk — to the nearest hardware store or the five and dime. Buy some paint and a brush — or some metal numerals and a hammer and nails. It could be the most useful thing you did all week. (Copyright, 1966)

Sheinwold Find Key To Tough Defense

"Bridge a la Carte." Instead, Schleifer gave Erdos a simple defensive play that should help his readers.

When this hand was played some years ago, Schleifer led the ace of hearts. Schleifer's next play showed the mark of the master.

In the average game West would lead another heart, and South would ruff. Declarer would draw trumps with the king and ace and then lead a diamond.

East would step up with the king of diamonds to lead a club. Dummy would win and lead another diamond. East would take his ace and lead another club, but South would take the king of clubs and cash the queen of diamonds to discard the last club from dummy.

South would make game with his ghastly hand and would crow about the advantages of bidding with such garbage. All of which would set bridge back twenty years.

Prevents Crowing

Schleifer prevented any such crowing by switching to a low club at the second trick. He did not expect to win two hearts and two diamonds, so could see that a club trick was needed to defeat the contract. He could also see that only an immediate club lead would build a fourth trick for the defense.

Declarer took the ace of clubs and led a diamond. East rose with the king of diamonds and led another club to the king. When East got in with the ace of diamonds, he could lead a third club to defeat the contract.

Maybe that taught South not to overcall with such a worthless hand.

Races for County Offices To Get Underway This Week

Kemps Seeks Eighth Term As Coroner in Outagamie

Outagamie County Coroner, Bernard H. Kemps today became the first person to announce candidacy for a county office in the fall election.

Kemps will seek an eighth term as coroner, on the Republican ticket.

Candidates for county elective offices can start taking out nomination papers Friday. Kemps, of 1412 W. Franklin St., was appointed coroner in 1950 to succeed Les Holzer who died in office four days before election.

Re-elected in 1952, The Kimberly native has won re-election to the coroner's job each term since 1950, each time as a Republican. He is employed as a linotype operator at The Post-Crescent.

Kemps, a member of the executive committee of the Outagamie County Republican party, is a former president of the Wisconsin Coroners' Association and now is a member of the advisory board of the National Association of Coroners. He has been on a number of training seminars for both the national and state organizations.

He and his wife, Marion, have three sons and one daughter.

Most elected county officials will appear on the ballots in November.

Sheriff's Race

Up for grabs and almost certain to provide one of the main attractions in the election is the sheriff's post which will be vacated by Calvin Spice who has served the two-term maximum.

Although he has not announced his candidacy, Norbert Marx appears to be a likely choice to seek the nomination. Marx is Outagamie County undersheriff.

Other names have been "in the wind," but there are no official announcements of candidacy.

Also almost certain to make a bid for re-election is Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. He is expected to announce his candidacy later this week.

Other Offices

Other county offices to be filled in November include:

Moment of Reckoning Creates Excitement

There's a long moment of reckoning that carries with it a special excitement at the tag end of a meeting of the Wisconsin Junior Academy of Science.

This is the time the judges are out of the lecture room where all day scientific papers have been presented; these carefully picked experts are considering those papers, preparing to pick the three best for the coveted annual Steenbock Scholarship awards.

Saturday afternoon in lecture room 201 of Stephenson Hall at Lawrence University was no exception. Twenty-four high school scientists, chosen from eight previously held divisional meetings, had given their individual papers based on original scientific research. They were now waiting for the results.

Difficult Task
"This is one of the hardest years for judging," said Junior Academy Director Jack R. Arndt, of Madison and the University of Wisconsin Extension Division. "The papers were excellent and difficult to judge one over the other."

This is the man who ought to know since he's been running the Wisconsin Junior Academy and its programs for the last five years. He has helped from a state committee composed of 15 persons interested in the work, most of whom are science teachers.

Area members of his school committee this year include: Sister Mary Evelyn, of St. Mary's High School, Menasha; Charles Scribner, Appleton High School; Raymond Larson, Sheboygan South High School; Michael J. Wisniewski, Urban Junior High School, Sheboygan.

Judges of Papers
The judges for this year's competition were Dr. Robert

Ray Sadecki Traded for Giants' Cepeda

Left-Handed Hurler Expected to Give 'Pennant Insurance'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco Giants have a new left-handed pitcher—Ray Sadecki—the St. Louis Cardinals have a new clean-up hitter—Orlando Cepeda—and Cepeda has a chance to play regularly. The straight player deal be-between the two National League teams was made Sunday.

Both clubs and Sadecki expressed satisfaction with the trade. Cepeda, the veteran first baseman-outfielder, had mixed emotions.

The Cardinals had been looking for someone to add punch to their weak-hitting line-up, while the Giants were casting about for a left-handed pitcher to augment their right-handed aces, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry.

Played Sparingly

Cepeda, who has played sparingly since he underwent surgery to remove cartilage in his right knee in December, 1964, has been anxious to play regularly.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst, elated about the trade, said the right-handed slugger would be installed in the clean-up spot for today's game in Chicago. Cepeda has a .286 average with three homers and 15 RBIs in 19 games this season.

The Cardinals' doubts about Cepeda's knee apparently have been satisfied.

Cepeda, 28, who has 226 home runs and a lifetime average of .303, was told of the deal after the St. Louis-San Francisco game Sunday.

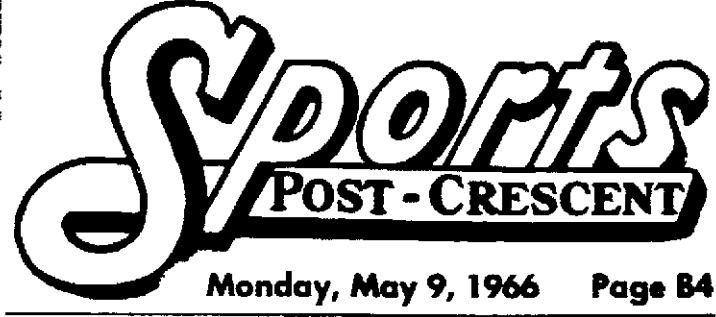

"I had a feeling I would be traded," Cepeda said, "and I guess I'm happy because I'll get a chance to play every day. But I've been with the Giants so long."

The 25-year-old Sadecki, who won 20 games in 1964 when the Cardinals captured the pennant and the World Series, said he expected the trade.

"We're in first, and I hope I can do my share to help out," he said. "I'm looking forward to going to San Francisco."

Giants Increase Win Streak to 8 Games With 10-5 Triumph

Spoil Cardinals' Farewell at Old Busch Stadium

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants may have pulled off a unique double play at St. Louis, spoiling the Cardinals' farewell at Busch Stadium—and possibly the National League pennant race.

The Giants displayed their muscles in a 10-5 victory over the Cardinals Sunday, then unloaded some immediately after the game by trading slugging outfielder-first baseman Orlando Cepeda to St. Louis for left-handed Ray Sadecki.

Cepeda, who has a lifetime batting average of .308, undoubtedly will supply the Cardinals with more punch. He put on quite a show before changing uniforms, hitting a grand slam homer Saturday and driving in two runs with a pair of hits Sunday.

20-Game Winner Sadecki, a 20-game winner for the Cardinals' pennant-winners in 1964, undoubtedly will supply the Giants with more pitching—the one ingredient they obviously feel is needed to pull away from the field in a bid for their first pennant since 1952.

The Giants already hold a 2½-game league lead and are working on an eight-game winning streak but there's no doubt Sadecki will be the perfect complement to the club's other starters, right-handers Juan Marichal, Bob Shaw and Bob Bolin.

So far, however, the Giants haven't needed much help. They've been getting most of it from the hitters. After a 15-run explosion Saturday, Willie McCovey, Jim Hart and Willie Mays hammered homers Sunday. Mays' was No. 513 of his career.

Sloan Named to Replace Maravich As NCS Coach

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Norman Sloan, newly appointed head basketball coach at North Carolina State, says he plans to use "a running game with a pressure defense whenever possible."

"There are no set names for the type of game I coach," said Sloan after his appointment to succeed Press Maravich was announced Saturday. Maravich resigned April 30 to take the head coaching post at Louisiana State University.

Sloan, 39, head basketball coach at the University of Florida for the past six seasons, planned to sign a three-year contract at N.C. State today. The terms were not disclosed.

13 Walks Aid Fox Cities in 8-1 Triumph

DECATUR, Ill. — Despite only four hits, the Fox Cities Foxes made good use of 13 bases on balls to record an 8-1 Midwest League triumph over Decatur's Commodores here Sunday afternoon.

The victory enabled the Foxes to climb within a game of first place, currently held by Burlington. The Foxes and Commodores clash again tonight at Fans Field.

Tim McLain opened on the mound for the Foxes and yielded Decatur's only run in the second inning when Tim Young singled, advanced to third on Ron Grossmiller's double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Don DeSousa.

Gary Schaefer relieved McLain in the third and Willie Hooker, who picked up his third win of the season without a loss, hurled the last three innings.

Retired in Order Schaefer and Hooker each gave up only one hit and the Commodores were retired in order from the fourth through the eighth inning, with a double play following their lone hit in the fifth frame.

The Foxes finally hit the scoreboard in the seventh inning when Bill Melton walked and scored on Jay Petersen's single. Four more runs followed in the eighth, and another trio of scores tallied in the ninth.

After walks to Al Kristowski, and "Deacon" Jones, Melton singled to jam the sacks in the eighth. Tom Cottrell walked and Petersen sacrificed in another score. A throwing error on shortstop DeSousa allowed Melton and Cottrell to cross the plate.

Japanese reliever Hide Koga walked three straight in the ninth — Hooker, Kristowski, Jones — before Jones singled in another run. Melton followed with a walk, sending Koga showers-bound, with Ralph Durgin taking the hill. Petersen's sacrifice scored the final run of the game.

Maloney's Return Set for Tuesday

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Maloney, Cincinnati's strikeout king, is expected to get back into action this week after being out two weeks with an arm injury.

The fire-balling right-hander is scheduled to start the first game of the Reds' two-night doubleheader against the Atlanta Braves Tuesday. The Reds in my life I'm sorry to see him open a four-game stand in Atlanta tonight.

Cincinnati Catcher Don Pavletich came from second base to score on pitcher Jim O'Toole's 2-out single in the fourth inning of their game against Los Angeles Sunday. Umpire Tony Venzon called the play as Dodger catcher Jeff Torborg displayed the ball in the web of his mitt. The Reds won, 2-1, with the help of O'Toole's run-scoring single and Pavletich's effort. Orioles Sweep 2 From Tribe; Frank Robinson Hits Mammoth Homer

BY JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Nearly 400 bowlers went to the line over the weekend in the Post-Crescent Bowl-O-Rama, but by the time the firing was over, the four tournament leaders were still firmly entrenched in first place.

There were some shaky moments in three of the four classes however, as a number of keggers came close to taking over lead spots. Top threats over Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and evening were made by Jim Post, Appleton, in men's Class B; Charlotte Reynebeau, Kimberly, in women's Class A, and Ruth Kuchenbecker, Neenah, in women's Class B.

The entry deadline for the Bowl-O-Rama is midnight Thursday. Shifts are filled for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights this week and anyone entering should pick one of Sunday's four shifts. There are openings at 2, 4, 7, and 9 p.m.

Houk's Return Brings Change Yanks Showing New Spirit

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The New York Yankees may feel sorry for Johnny Keane but they're enchanted by the effect produced Saturday when Ralph Houk was reappointed their manager.

"I never saw anything like it — it's like being traded from one team to another," veteran pitcher Bob Friend remarked Sunday after the down-turned Yankees beat California 5-2 to make it two victories in a row since Houk's return.

"There was an immediate change in the entire club," said catcher Elston Howard when asked about Houk's succeeding Keane. "The spirit is here again. Our whole bench was alive."

Houk wouldn't say what he told the Yankees after he took change of command early Saturday night. But he makes it clear that he thinks they can win the pennant though they had a 4-16 record and were in last place when he took over.

"This team has the talent to win the pennant and so has every Yankee team I've managed since they aged," said Houk, who was elevated to general manager after batting average is only slightly winning titles three years in a row following Casey Stengel's dismissal in 1960.

3 Older Players "People say the Yankees have grown old and that there's nothing left in our farm system," he said, "but that's not true. The ballplayer is in his prime between the ages of 27 and 31 and the only older players we have who are going to be big league stars before long.

"This is no second division team and we'll prove it. I believe in these guys. If we don't do a lot better, it'll be a reflection on me. This is the biggest challenge I've ever had as a manager."

Under Keane, the Yankees had stressed running, base-running and the hit and run but Houk says the Yankees will now play for the big inning as they aged.

"We don't have players who hit for high averages," he said, "but we have power and we'll run innings." The Yankees have committed 24 errors in their first 22 games but Houk says he believes the defense is solid and will straighten itself out.

Keane Leaves Yankee Scene as a Gentleman

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane came in a gentleman and went out the same way — with kind words for the New York Yankees, who fired him Saturday as manager.

Keane arrived in New York late Sunday afternoon from Los Angeles and met his wife, Lela, who had flown up from their Houston home. He didn't even know the Yanks had won their second straight under Ralph Houk until a reporter told him.

"If they can get them hitting," said Keane, "that is all there will be to it. The pitching wasn't bad, but we just were not hitting."

"I left the Yankees with all good feelings. It has been a privilege to have worked for them. It is their right to make a change when they see fit. My wife and I really enjoyed New York. Contrary to talk about the big, cold city, we found it a very warm experience."

"I'm Available"

"I haven't had time to talk to anybody about the future. But I plan to contact all the major league teams. They all know that I am out. I want them to know I am available — if and when."

The lean, soft-spoken veteran of 37 years in baseball struggled his shoulders when he spoke of his problems with the Yankees, who were in last place with a 4-16 record when he was replaced.

"Things like this happen in baseball," he said. "You do your best, and that's all you can do. It wasn't frustrating to me, just disappointing. You go with the best you have and keep punching."

Keane said he did not know the ax was about to fall when he left on the long road trip last Thursday night. He had sent his wife home rather than have her alone in New York during his absence.

"The first I knew was about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon," said Keane. "I asked them to hold off the announcement until I could tell the players myself. They agreed."

Keane spent his entire pre-Yankee career as a player, coach and manager in the St. Louis Cardinals organization.

Stanford Frosh Track Star Refuses To Get Haircut, Benched by Coach

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A Stanford track star who refused to let his long, golden locks and sideburns be shorn was benched by coach Payton Jordan for refusing to get a haircut.

The length of one's hair is totally irrelevant to track, Morrison said. "I don't feel such demands should be submitted to. One shouldn't be forced to do something so trivial against his will. I've got certain principles and I'm not going to compromise them."

Didn't Blame Jordan, an art major who has been wearing his hair long since he entered Stanford on an athletic scholarship, didn't really blame Jordan.

"Coach Jordan is merely complying with what they want. It's the whole system, the athletic department. If (the policy) shouldn't be," he said.

Morrison said long hair is a mark of distinction in London. "Most important men you see have long hair," he added.

Jordan said, "All I'm asking him to do is meet us fifty-fifty. I'm not asking him to get a Yuri Bryner or a bunch. All I'm asking him is to get a little trim so it won't hang over his ears and down his neck."

Teacher Corps, Rent Subsidy Money Comes Before House

Congress Has Been Cool Toward Favorite Projects of Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill containing money for two of President Johnson's pet projects, the National Teacher Corps and the rent subsidy program, went before the House today.

Congress has been cool this session toward both projects. The Teacher Corps is designed to improve the education of children in slum areas. The rent program provides federal funds to augment rent payments of low-income families living in privately built housing.

On today's House docket is a catch-all compromise appropriation bill providing $2.78 billion to tide over various agencies until June 30, when this fiscal year ends. It includes $9.5 million for the Teacher Corps and $100,000 in cash for the rent subsidy program plus authority for another $12 million in contractual commitments.

Administration leaders promised a fight to bolster the subsidy program and keep it going through at least next year.

Senate leaders planned to call up today 10 House-passed bills authorizing sales of surplus metals and materials from the defense stockpile.

Both houses have scheduled floor action early in the week on bills authorizing a construction program for the Atomic Energy Commission.

If its appropriations committee acts in time, the Senate may vote later in the week on House-passed bills financing the Treasury, Post Office and Interior departments.

Box Car Bill
The House will take up later in the week a miscellany of bills including one designed to relieve the shortage of railroad box cars.

Committee action during the week centers on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the House Judiciary Committee and the Joint Economic Committee.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is the top witness scheduled today before the Senate committee considering the $3.4 billion foreign aid authorization.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach will resume testimony Tuesday before the House committee studying the new civil rights bill.

Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz leads off Joint Economic Committee hearings starting today on private and public pension plans.

Hearing Set On Medicare In Wisconsin

MADISON (AP) — A public hearing will be held Tuesday on a bill that would revise Wisconsin's statutes relating to federal Medicare.

The proposal is listed by Democrats and Republicans alike as one of the main issues before the Legislature's spring session.

The bill was recommended by a governor's task force and will be heard by the Senate Public Welfare Committee.

As drafted, the bill would increase total costs by $10 million, although state and local shares would decrease by $13.3 million.

Included in the measure are provisions that would repeal maximum limits for old age assistance and aid to the blind and disabled and would make need the basis for qualifying.

Also on Tuesday the Assembly Judiciary Committee will hear arguments on a bill requiring all persons under 21 to have uniform identification cards for buying beer.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Wednesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee on a bill intended to close loopholes in the state's anti-secrecy law.

Assembly-approved bills to create the post of consumer counsel to advise the governor on matters affecting consumers' interest and to tighten the fraudulent advertising law also are scheduled for the hearings the same day before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sorensen's Brother in Nebraska Race

Kin of Ex-Counsel To President Seeks Democratic Nod

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Philip C. Sorensen, younger brother of former presidential counsel Theodore Sorensen, makes his bid for the Democratic nomination for governor in Tuesday's Nebraska primary.

The Lincoln attorney won the lieutenant governorship two years ago in his first try for public office.

He is aiming now for the office being vacated by Democrat Frank Morrison who is running for the U.S. Senate.

Sorensen has two primary opponents: Henry Ley, 62, of Wayne, who quit as state banking director to seek the nomination, and state Senator J. W. Burbach, 54, Crofton grain dealer.

On the Republican side, former Gov. Val Peterson, 62, again is seeking the office he held from 1947 to 1953.

Peterson, former federal Civil Defense administrator and ambassador to Denmark, has four opponents including a hard-campaigning newcomer, Norbert T. Tieman, 41, Wausau banker; former State Normal Board President Bruce F. Hagemaster, 56, Hemingford; Henry Kuhlmann, 49, former rancher and farmer from Grand Island; and Albert E. Hahn, 52, retired Grand Island junk dealer.

When the Morrison-Sorensen combination won election in 1964, it was the first time in 30 years Democrats had taken both governorship and lieutenant governorship in Nebraska.

Name Helps
The Sorensen name is a political asset. Philip's father — a Republican — had been Nebraska attorney general. His brother Ted kept the name in the news as an aide to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Although the governorship contests hold the center of the stage in the primary, a heated contest appears in the offing for the Senate in the general election.

Most Americans thought shish kebab was a foreign cussword, and weren't sure whether vodka was the name of a Russian drink or a Russian river. Only daredevils ordered in a Chinese restaurant anything except egg rolls, chow mein or chop suey.

Conservative folk thought anybody who bought anything on the installment plan was headed for the poorhouse.

Old people got their exercise in the summer sitting on the front porch swatting house flies. Twenty-five wasn't a bad day's total.

Evison, 68, is now getting out of the Navy. He was in the Army in World War I, returned to civilian life, then served in the Navy in World War II. He returned to the Navy for Korea and the present conflict. This time it will be home for good, he claims. (AP Wirephoto)

Trenton Mayor Seeks Re-election After Living in Racially Mixed Area

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Mayor Arthur J. Holland — who appointed deputy director of the public affairs department. He was elected to the city commission in 1955 and became mayor in 1959 when he won more votes than anyone else in the commission election.

He led a fight to change the commission system and strengthen the mayor's position then became Trenton's first mayor under the new form of government in 1962.

He received about 17,400 votes in that election, 10,000 more than his closest competitor. There were 54,000 registered voters, including 8,000 negroes.

An election official who is backing Armenti estimates that about 4,000 Negroes voted in 1962 and that probably three fourths were for Holland.

Although voter registration has decreased by 5,000 since then, registration of Negro voters has increased to more than 11,000. Both camps acknowledge the Negro vote could be decisive in a close race.

Humor Pays His Parking Ticket
BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — When Herman M. Nelson of Austin, Tex., received a parking ticket while visiting in Beaumont recently, he sat down and wrote a letter to the police.

Nelson told Beaumont Police Chief Willie Bauer that the parking meter he parked in front of had a green tree frog sitting on the coin slot.

"He would budge no more than a property owner who had decided not to be evicted," Nelson's letter read.

"Since I had no desire to maim, mangle, or murder this independent individual — or to get warts — I let him remain," said Nelson.

The Beaumont police chief replied: "Such a refreshing letter from a visitor to our town is worth a dollar of anybody's money, so I paid your fine out of my pocket. Please come back and bring your humor with you."

One of the handicaps faced by statisticians is the lack of data from Communist China.

A U.N. report in 1963 said the world's population, estimated at three billion in 1960, might double to six billion by the year 2,000. This was based on assumptions as to trends in fertility and mortality made for various world regions.

The report said also the estimate at the low point could be 5,390,000,000 and at the high point 6,630,000,000.

Governments and international agencies have been using the U.N. estimates as a framework for assessments of future social and economic needs.

In summing up the findings of the second U.N. world population conference, Smith said the participants stressed that it was unwise to take long-range estimates literally because of the many uncertainties that lie ahead.

Holland also said he bought the house in hope of halting deterioration eating away at much of Trenton, and because his wife, Betty, wanted an old home that could be restored to authentic early American style.

Holland has had strong support from Italians in past elections. Now some observers believe Armenti, an Italian, will draw off some of that support.

Holland entered city government 15 years ago when he was appointed deputy director of the public affairs department. He was elected to the city commission in 1955 and became mayor in 1959 when he won more votes than anyone else in the commission election.

He led a fight to change the commission system and strengthen the mayor's position then became Trenton's first mayor under the new form of government in 1962.

Fight Expected Soon

Supply Shortages Keep VC in Hiding

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — There is growing belief that the Viet Cong and more than 20,000 recent reinforcements from North Viet Nam will come out of hiding soon and fight.

They have been lying low for weeks. One reason, American military men say, is that the Communists have been critically short of supplies. They have been hurt by the repeated search-and-destroy sweeps by allied ground forces and incessant U.S. air strikes.

The Reds are thought to be regrouping and resupplying to take the initiative with the onset of the monsoon rains, when the weather prevents the Americans from providing ground forces with full-scale air cover and support.

Moussoons Beginning
The monsoon season, just beginning, runs into August. Some military men argue that instead of a single massive offensive, the Communists will make many small-scale attacks. The most probable targets are allied outposts along the Laotian and Cambodian frontiers.

Military sources say that Cambodia is where some of the infiltrating North Vietnamese have joined Viet Cong units and sought sanctuary from American guns. Some branches of the Ho Chi Minh Trail from the north end there.

In recent weeks, however, the United States has ruled out Cambodia as a sanctuary. Artillery and infantrymen have fired across the border when attacked from Cambodia.

To counter this, intelligence reports say, the Communists have pulled back into Cambodia about 20 miles. The monsoon drives are expected from these new sanctuaries.

Sensitive Spot
One particularly sensitive spot, long a Viet Cong stronghold, is the French-named C Zone just inside South Viet Nam along the Cambodian border.

American infantrymen have repeatedly swept through this area and destroyed huge caches of supplies but have made only minor contact with the enemy. The giant B52 bombers also have subjected the area to incessant heavy bombing.

U.S. intelligence is reasonably sure that more than 20,000 North Vietnamese have entered South Viet Nam and neighboring Laos and Cambodia since the first of the year.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Giants Score Eighth Win In Succession

their new $24 million park Thursday.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 2-1, Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia 5-2, Houston defeated Atlanta 5-4 and the New York Mets downed the Chicago Cubs 5-1 after losing the opener of a doubleheader 3-1.

Jim O'Toole checked the Dodgers on three hits in the seventh inning he worked singled home what turned out to be the winning run for the Reds in the fourth inning and posted his first victory since Sept. 14. Tony Perez's sacrifice fly drove in the other Cincinnati run off Dodger starter Claude Osteen.

The Pirates snapped a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning on a walk to Willie Stargell and singles by Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski. Bob Veale went all the way, scattering eight Phillies hits. Veale also drove in a run with a single.

Astros Come Back

Run producing singles by Joe Torre and Lee Thomas gave the Braves a 4-3 lead in the eighth, but the Astros came back in the ninth with the aid of errors by Frank Bolling and Woody Woodward. Rusty Staub scored the tying run on Woodward's wild throw before Joe Morgan drove in the winner with a bases-loaded single.

The Cubs won the first game despite collecting only two hits. The first, a single by Glenn Beckert in the sixth innings off Jack Hamilton, drove in two runs — enough to win. Chris Krug's steal of home produced the other run.

Dennis Ribant stopped the Cubs on five hits in the nightcap while the Mets put it out of reach with a five-run third inning. Jim Hickman triggered the rally with a leadoff homer. de Bressoud tripled home another run and scored on Ken Boyer's single before Johnny Lewis capped the uprising with a two-run single.

Milwaukeean Takes Lead In State All-Events

EAU CLAIRE (AP) — Greg Gappa of Milwaukee took the lead Sunday in the open all events division of the Wisconsin State Bowlers Association men's tournament.

Gappa has a total of 1936. He also moved into second place in the regular open singles with a 660.

In the open division, Zirbel Electric of Kenosha took over second place with a 2309.

The tournament ends next week.

for the season and his high series was a 566.

The 31-year-old kegler works at the Kimberly-Clark plant in Neenah, lives at 723 E. Franklin Street, Appleton and was competing in the Bowl-O-Rama for the first time.

Al Drall, Appleton, drew what was probably the largest round of applause of the tournament Sunday when he powered a 233 game scratch and carried a 40-pin handicap for a 273 total. Drall was celebrating his birthday, which was Saturday, and he was 72 years old that day.

Drall's high game helped him into fifth place in a Class B as he had an 877 total. Two other changes in Class B were noted as LeRoy Tesch, Menasha, fired a 875 total Saturday night good for sixth place and Joe Van Krey, Kimberly, took over eighth with an 864.

There were no changes in the top 10 spots in men's Class A over the weekend. Jeff Bonnett, Oshkosh, division leader, called in to report a 1-pin error in his total score as he found he should have a 957 instead of the 958 he was credited with. Top court rolled in Class A was by Art Pennings, of Little Chute, who had an 857 Sunday including a scratch game of 235.

The first triplicate of the Bowl-O-Rama was recorded Sunday night as Roger Ott, Menasha, posted 159 in his first three games. He nearly pulled the trick again in his fourth game as he had a 163.

In Line For Prize

The triplicate puts Ott in line for a prize of a men's Lord Paul Swaleve.

Chaffotte Reynbeau, Kimberly, rolled into third place in women's Class A and also took home a shift prize Sunday night. She rolled a 201 game and had a 15 pins handicap for a 216, best and 5-4.

The results left La Crosse, shift. The men's shift prizes: Whitewater, Stevens Point and went to Mike Bork, DePere, and Gary Schreiber, Little Chute as each had a 255 game including a 216 handicap.

Mrs. Reynbeau had a 201 start, followed with a 185, slipped to a 152 and finished with 188 for her third place score.

In Class B for women, Ruth Kuchenecker tied for total on 665 scratch and 112 pins handicap. Ruth's high game was a booming 210 in her third line.

Faye Breuer, Appleton, took sixth in Class B with a 758 total which included a 194 game scratch. A tie for 10th place, developed when Joan Thomas, Neenah and Mabel Breier, Kimberly each posted a 744.

This uncensored dispatch brought out of China by the British Novelist Frank Tuohy, gives a hint in its disclosure of the way Americans are depicted there. Since U.S. reporters are not admitted to China, The Associated Press asked Tuohy to report on his findings in this and in other articles to appear later.

Author of Series
Professor, Writer

Frank Tuohy, 41, author of the series on China beginning today, is a Briton who has lived in Europe and Latin America and now is a professor of English at Waseda University in Tokyo.
His novel "The Ice Saints," winner of literary prizes in England, has been published also in the United States. It developed during several years he spent in Poland after World War II.
A collection of his short stories grew in part out of six years Tuohy spent as an instructor at the University of Sao Paulo in Brazil.
Tuohy was educated at Cambridge University in England. This was his first trip to China. He also took the accompanying pictures.

The officer taunts her. Raising the child, he hurls it down on to the crossed bayonets. The woman shrieks. Grinning, the officer draws a revolver and shoots her on the spot.

American Officer
Canton. The American officer, mother and baby Vietnamese. This gruesome scene starts off the Chinese film "Victory is Just Ahead," which I saw in Canton. The American officer, called J. Watson, is played by a Chinese with a false nose. Later we see him striding like Simon Legree around the fortified village he controls until he finally is dispatched with a hatchet by the woman's sister. Other scenes show Americans burning an old man, hurling young girls to the floor, drinking continuously, and snarling as they go to their inevitable defeat.

Why do the Americans have to be presented like this? There are several reasons. First, the Chinese believe that they have been especially marked out for American detestation since 1949. One of the "remolded capitalists" of Shanghai, used to turning on his opinions for foreigners, was quite definite about it: "The Americans have bullied us too, much. We are determined to see this through. The Americans have always been dead against China. In 1950 they bombed plants in Shanghai and have made more than 400 intrusions. Why should we Chinese have aggressive designs on other countries when there is so much to be done here?"

Loss of Friends
Further embellishments are added to this general picture every day. China's sudden loss of friends in Ghana and Indonesia is due to CIA plotting: all American moves for peace in Viet Nam are a hoax.
Secondly, in spite of diplomatic setbacks, China still wishes to appear the leader of revolutionary movements against imperialism and neocolonialism all over the world.

The breakdown of the relationship with Cuba is still a traumatic experience which has not been adjusted to. In the big cities of China there is still a poster portraying a bearded Castroite. I asked a Chinese: "Surely that is a Cuban?" "It isn't," he said. "Who is it, then?"

Look for Oppressed
"I don't know," he replied. Deprived of the Cubans, China looks elsewhere for oppressed peoples to lead. Flagged maps of the United States shows spots of "student worker" protest as though these were Chinese outposts in a battle.

My objection that many of the protesting American students were Christians and pacifists were brushed aside.

Thirdly the Americans play an important role in the thought of Chairman Mao Tze-tung. According to Marx and Lenin, two become one: thesis and antithesis become synthesis. According to Chairman Mao, the greatest revisionist of them all, however, "one becomes two": any one situation always contains two opposites, a contradiction, and there is no synthesis. "The struggle of opposites is ceaseless."

Devil With Us
Thus there will always be a struggle between the party and the reactionaries. This struggle will never come to an end, so-called will never be transformed, and communism may be postponed forever.

Thus the devil will always be with us and, at present at least, the Americans fit the role better than anyone else. Why? Because they are the most powerful nation in the world, they are unrepentantly capitalist, their military bases still encircle China: and in Viet Nam they are fighting an antipeople's war, without overwhelming success.

In films, in plays and operas, the Americans are represented as long-nosed, knocked-kneed, whip-cracking cowards and sadists. They date back to Uncle Tom's Cabin. The technological nightmare of modern warfare is

Boys In The Young Pioneers youth group perform at Communist China's Youth Festival in Nanking, Communist China. Their performance, aimed at almost completely ignored. Hiroshima and Nagasaki are unknown names. In short, the atom bomb is another "paper tiger."

When I reminded a Chinese that China, too, possesses a bomb, I was told: "China will never use it."

No Mushroom Cloud
This was the typical comment on the bomb in China, and I concluded that the Chinese doubt that the Americans will use it either. Posters show tiny, cowardly Americans fleeing everywhere from enormous Vietnamese children draw pictures of bayoneted Johnsons; but the image of the mushroom cloud is hard to find in China. This is not surprising. Chairman Mao, whose words are everybody's bible, has given like this greet every question posted in every school and university I visited. But from what I saw, he is playing down the bomb.

Nevertheless, China's attitude of hostility to America is very play an isolationist waiting game? And Because all dictatorships depend on propaganda. There must be someone to love; Chairman Mao: And someone to hate: Uncle Sam.

To Your Good Health

Doctors Case Records
Are Personal Property

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D. goes, the medical records belong to the patient, not to the doctor. When a patient changes doctors, can the records be transferred? Can a doctor refuse to do this? — Mrs. L.

Ordinarily yes, but this is not quite as open-and-shut a question as you might offhand think. For practical purposes, the way to proceed is to have your new doctor request the records (or copies of them) from your former doctor. You must specify your willingness to have this done. Remember, both ethically and legally, information which your doctor, past or present, possesses about you is confidential. He has no right to reveal anything without your consent. Therefore doctors are very careful about giving out information — including your medical records — without your approval. Consent should be in writing and signed by you. So far as the legal aspect

The patient receives the services of the doctor — examination, treatment, advice. The records, however, are an account of what the doctor has done. If some legal question comes up, perhaps involving a claim or law suit by the patient, the doctor needs his records if he is to be able to testify intelligently. Thus it is not entirely a question of "the patient has gone to someone else: why keep the records?" The doctor may, under some circumstances, feel it wise that he retain his notations of what he has done for you.

My answer, therefore, is that in most cases records or copies or summaries of them can be transferred to another physician as a matter of courtesy, but it is not something that you can demand. Courtesy and common sense solve a lot of things easily, whereas defining one's "rights" isn't always so easy. Dear Dr. Molner: Can exercises to develop the bust be harmful? I think I can see some improvement. — Miss P.R.

No, exercise won't harm the bust. It won't increase the size, either, but it may improve your posture and that helps more than most girls realize. (Copyright, 1966)

WHAT'S THE PRICE OF A HOSPITAL BED THESE DAYS?

Ask a hospital purchasing agent. He will tell you it's about $400, including mattress, spring and electric positioning controls.

But the true costs of the hospital bed are largely behind the scenes. Sure, you can see the "hotel" services every patient needs — the meals, housekeeping, laundry, the room itself. That's only a small part of modern hospital care.

Not so visible are the many skilled technical and professional people required for every bed patient. Dietitians, X-ray and medical technologists, for example. Without people with these special skills, what good would today's advanced life-saving equipment be? Heart-lung machines. Cardiac pacemakers. Radioactive isotope therapy. Laboratories. X-ray departments. Add up the cost of these and other vital elements and you arrive at the actual cost of that hospital bed. In fact, the cost per hospital bed in Wisconsin averages about $25,000. Not cheap. Neither is human life. This is the hospital's main criterion.

Behind most hospital beds — and there are 18,603 beds in the 162 Wisconsin hospitals — is another comforting element. Blue Cross • Blue Shield protection. Proved by experience to be the most effective way of paying for the costs of today's remarkable progress in health care.

Mansfield Urges U.S. Recognition of Mongolian Regime

Says Country Would Provide 'Valuable Listening Post'

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposed today that the United States recognize Mongolia, a Communist-controlled nation sandwiched between Red China and the Soviet Union in mainland Asia.

This would help ease international tensions, Mansfield said in an interview, and give the United States "a valuable listening post" between the two Communist giants.

Mansfield's proposal came as he endorsed the call by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., for appointment of a "blue ribbon" commission to reassess U.S. policy toward Communist China.

The Kennedy-McGovern suggestions also brought these developments during the week-end:

"Intriguing Idea"
—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who testifies before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today, described the commission proposal as "an intriguing idea." But Rusk said for more than a year the executive branch has had a very competent group making an intensive study of these matters. He did not further identify the group. "They have been in touch with experts outside; they have visited universities and they have searched the literature for possible new ideas," Rusk said on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

He also said he has discussed recently with President Johnson "the desirability of systematizing outside advance in the general areas of the world." He added: "I think it is very likely that we shall do this somewhat more systematically than we have done before."

Humphrey's Support
—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was reported actively supporting the proposal to create a commission. Although he was silent about Johnson's reaction, Humphrey's endorsement was viewed as indicating a willingness by the administration to explore new avenues in Asian policies.

—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said Humphrey's support encourages him to believe such a policy review may materialize. "I certainly think we need to have a searching look at possible future relations with Communist China," he said.

Rusk disagreed with Sen. J.

Doctor Says Allen
Was Hopeful About
Recovery Chances

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Up to the end he had a hopeful, optimistic attitude."

This was how Dr. T.E.A. von Dedenroth recalled the optimism of Robert Allen, 29, who died Sunday, ending his fight against a rare form of bone cancer.

Allen, suffering from osteogenic sarcoma, underwent a transfer of cancerous tissue with Harry T. Griffith, 63, of Flourtown, Pa., about eight weeks ago at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.

Allen never knew that Griffith, a former minor league baseball player, died April 25.

Allen was admitted to a Tucson hospital Friday. Dr. von Dedenroth said the cancer had spread too far through Allen's pelvic area.

"He had been under hypotherapy treatment," Von Dedenroth said, "and thought that he had this thing licked."

Hypnosis Treatment

The doctor said that Allen, who returned from Buffalo 12 days ago, had been under a hypnosis treatment which enabled him to develop a positive outlook toward his disease.

Even when Allen's condition worsened last week, requiring a policy review may materialize, he "felt he was merely recuperating from the operation," Von Dedenroth said.

Political Storm Rocks Ruling Junta in Saigon

Bombers Hit Missile Sites Close to Port

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers knocked out two more Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam and chased off a flight of Communist MIG17s southeast of Hanoi, the U.S. Command reported today.

Navy A4 Skyhawks hit a surface-to-air missile site 12 miles north-northwest of Haiphong Sunday, the U.S. command said, while Air Force pilots reported they destroyed a SAM site 30 miles north-northeast of Hanoi. It was the closest penetration so far to Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port.

A military spokesman said U.S. fliers evaded 11 missiles fired from sites in three different areas during air strikes Sunday.

MIG's Flee

The spokesman said Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs encountered the MIGs 70 miles southeast of Hanoi. He said the American pilots closed in, but the MIGs turned and fled before they could be engaged.

The missile sites were hit Sunday during a break in the monsoon rains. American planes flew 51 missions against the Communist north after a week of limited assaults because of the weather.

The American fliers also kept up their pummeling of bridges and highways in the north to cut further supply routes to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, and Haiphong.

An Air Force spokesman reported Sunday that three weeks of raids had severed all the main road and rail supply routes between Hanoi and Haiphong and to Red China.

Movement Slowed
"All these arteries can be bypassed, but I think it will slow down the movement of supplies. They will have to find some other means — by junks or barges," the spokesman said.

He said aerial photographs confirmed the destruction to bridges and highways leading to Hanoi from four directions.

Although North Viet Nam claimed that six U.S. planes were shot down over the north Sunday, the U.S. Command reported only one loss — a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief that was hit during strikes.

Prime Minister Won't Allow CIA

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi assured Parliament today she would not allow the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to operate through American educators working in India.

Mrs. Gandhi and Home Minister Gulzari Lal Nanda said they had no evidence that any educational activity in India has been used as a CIA front, or that any Indian atomic secrets have leaked out.

LBJ Endorses Huge Education Aid Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — or other social, economic or emotional ills. The council president today an advisory council chairman is O. Meredith Wil-report endorsing massive federal aid to education, yet finding much to criticize about the first year of the administration's current billion-dollar program.

Johnson, in a letter transmitting the report, emphasized "progress which has been achieved" under the 1965 law assisting elementary and secondary education.

The 33-page report was prepared by the National Advisory Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children — students handicapped by poverty

— "There are some early indications" that students in private and parochial schools are getting less than their fair share of federally financed aid, a situation the council blamed on local officials. It recommended federal requirements that all requests be accompanied by a "clear statement of the extent to which each project will involve children from private and parochial schools."

CAIRO (AP) — The United States is encouraged to continue military activity in Viet Nam because the Soviet Union is in no position to issue an ultimatum for the withdrawal of American troops. President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic said in an interview made public today.

He also attacked U.S. policy toward Communist China.

Nasser blamed the dispute between Peking and Moscow for the Soviet Union's inability to give the United States an ultimatum to withdraw its troops from Viet Nam like the ultimatum it issued during the British-French invasion of Suez.

Ships From Dumping Sewage Near Superior

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaints from Superior city officials resulted Sunday in Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis. asking the Public Health Service to prevent ships from discharging sewage near a municipal water intake in the Duluth-Superior harbor.

Nelson said Superior officials have protested repeatedly about a dangerous pollution build-up in the area.

Nelson said both Minnesota and Wisconsin are to blame for the pollution which comes from industries and communities upstream along the St. Louis River, from storm and sanitary sewers and industries along the lake front.

Ky Comes Under Attack After Saying He Will Stay for Another Year

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky came under attack from within and outside the ruling junta today following his declaration that he expects to hang power for at least another year.

Informants said some of Ky's fellow generals considered the statement likely to endanger the delicate political balance that has kept them in power despite Buddhist agitation. Ky was reported to have made the declaration without consulting them.

Government censors cut the statement from the Vietnamese language press in an effort to minimize the political repercussions. Nevertheless, it spread by word of mouth through Saigon. Political groups threatened counteraction against the military government.

Buddhist's Reaction
The strongest reaction was expected from Saigon's influential Buddhist leadership, which has demanded an early return to civilian government.

As the new storm erupted around him, Ky lapsed into silence. He ordered his chauffeur to drive on when newsmen converged on his car for an explanation of his intentions.

One Buddhist leader, Thich Thien Minh, told a crowd of 5,000 persons in Da Nang that the Buddhists would organize another wave of protests if the government backed down on its pledge to hold elections for a national assembly next fall.

Reversal Expected

Minh, leader of the youth movement of Saigon's Buddhist Institute, is a protégé of the politically powerful monk Thich Tri Quang, principal figure behind the recent unrest that forced the junta to pledge elections at the end of the summer.

The Buddhist leader in Da Nang, Thich Minh Chieu, told a newsman that the 35-year-old premier and air force commander had made many declarations in the past and later withdrawn them.

"I expect he will reverse this declaration also," the monk said. But he warned: "The government has said there will be elections in three to four months. If the elections are not held, there may be a reaction."

Chieu appeared to be alluding to Ky's threat to seize Da Nang and other northern Buddhist hotbeds last March and execute

General Motors to Idle Eight Assembly Plants

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. plans to idle eight of its 23 auto assembly plants one to three days during the remaining 16 working days in May.

The firm said Saturday the cutbacks were being made to balance inventories with estimated demand for new cars.

A first cutback announced after it was under way last week caused a drop in GM prices on the stock market. But this was followed by an upturn when the firm said all 23 plants would return to operation today.

None of the other major American auto makers, Ford, Chrysler or American Motors, have announced production changes.

Los Angeles Police Chase Ends in Death

Man Said He Was
Rushing Pregnant
Wife to Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The high-speed chase ended with a police bullet in his chest and his head cradled in his pregnant wife's lap. Leonard Deadwyler's dying words were, "She's having a baby."

Authorities gave this account of Deadwyler's death Saturday night.

Deadwyler, 21, was driving his wife, Barbara, 25, to a hospital. With them was their son, Leonard Jr., 2, and Gamaliel Ferguson, 31, owner of the car. Several police cars pursued Deadwyler at speeds up to 80 miles per hour before he slowed almost to a stop.

Kept Moving

Deadwyler's car continued to inch forward as officers J. M. Bova and K. E. Ross approached and ordered a complete stop.

The car continued to inch forward. Bova, pistol in hand, thrust his head, shoulders and arms through Deadwyler's open window to remove the ignition key.

The car suddenly lurched forward, knocking Bova off balance and causing his pistol to fire. The bullet struck Deadwyler in the chest.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby hospital. Hospital attendants said his wife was not in labor. Their son was turned over to juvenile authorities for care.

Ferguson told police: "The guy said he had to take his wife to the hospital. She said she was going to have a baby."

Girl Mistaken for Burglar Shot to Death by Father

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A high school girl who arose before dawn to quiet the family dog was shot to death in the kitchen today when her father mistook her for a burglar.

Larna Kay Wilson, 18, cried, "Oh Daddy!" then collapsed and died.

Her father, Jack Wilson, 45, was sobbing beside the body when police arrived.

Wilson, a television repairman, told officers he heard a noise in the kitchen. He got his shotgun, saw a figure silhouetted against the back door, and fired.

Britain Holds Secret Session in Rhodesia

LONDON (AP) — Britain's last month with Rhodesia day began searching for a compromise with rebellious white rulers of Rhodesia under the gaze of suspicious African leaders.

The first exchanges between British authorities and a team representing Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime were in secret.

African states feared some sort of white men's deal.

Three officials of the Rhodesian white minority regime arrived Sunday for talks to determine whether a basis exists for negotiations to end the six-month crisis. The whites declared independence Nov. 11, defying British demands for ultimate African majority rule.

The three Rhodesians are Sir Cornelius Greenfield, chief economic adviser; Gerald Clarke, Cabinet secretary; and Stanley Morris, public services chairman. They were to meet with Oliver Wright, former private secretary to British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, and Duncan Watson of the Commonwealth Relations Office.

Secret Meeting
The talks were arranged when British officials met secretly with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith in Salisbury. Smith said later he was ready for unconditional talks but pledged never to compromise his regime's principles, and Wilson told Parliament Britain would not back down on its conditions for a final settlement. He said Britain would keep squeezing Rhodesia with an economic boycott and oil embargo.

President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, Rhodesia's African-ruled northern neighbor, said in Lusaka Sunday night he had written to Wilson protesting the new talks and said he was "not satisfied" with Wilson's reply.

Seeks Promise
Kaunda sent a personal emissary here to brief Zambian Foreign Minister Simon Kapwepwe, who was expected to demand assurances from Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Botswamy that African interests in Rhodesia will be safeguarded.

Kapwepwe is en route to New York, where Lord Caradon, Britain's chief U.N. delegate, is trying to get African delegates to delay a demand for an urgent Security Council meeting on Rhodesia.

13 Individuals Wrote Letters Backing Beghin For Conservation Post

FOX CITIES
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Thirteen persons testified Friday that they wrote letters to various state officials urging the appointment of Kenneth L. Beghin of Madison as state Conservation Department chief warden, but only one said that Beghin may have had prior knowledge of the act.

Beghin, department chief, is protesting to the state personnel board the refusal of the department to appoint him to the agency's chief law enforcement post.

He was among three top scorers on a state qualifying examination given for the appointment three years ago, but was placed fourth on the list when a veteran's preference points were added to score computations.

Beghin Objects
 Beghin protested that the additional points had been added to the scores in an incorrect manner and that the appointment of Walter J. Zelinske, Madison, to the post by L. P. Voight, department director, was incorrect.

Last October the State Supreme Court sustained Beghin's contentions regarding the preference points.

Since that time the Conservation Department has maintained that appointments from a list of certified candidates based on a three year old test could not be made, and Friday asked that the personnel board conduct another test to acquire a new list of qualified applicants.

State Laws
 Under state statutes, an applicant for a classified service position may not induce others to bring pressures upon appointing officials under penalty of loss of appointment. Unsolicited recommendations concerning appointments under the law may concern character, and depending upon interpretation, job qualifications, but may not contain threats of reprisal or reward.

New London Equals Old Low In Auto Accident Numbers

NEW LONDON — The 13 last month 56 arrests were made. Arrests for April included 41 speeding arrests, three for failing to yield from an arterial, one for disorderly conduct, two for drunkenness, three for driving too fast for conditions, five for unlawful removal of property, and one each of operating accidents were investigated by the department and last month 22 accidents were reported.

The 58 arrests in April was the greatest number for a month within a two-year period.

Dems Rap Gov. Knowles, Trucking Lobby, Highways

Carley, Frinzi, Lucey Speak at Party's Seventh District Parley

STEVENS POINT — Gov. Warren P. Knowles, the trucking industry's lobby and inadequate highway programs were the main targets of criticism from speakers at the 7th Congressional District Democratic convention here Sunday.

National Committeeman David Carley, a contender for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, told the delegates the "biggest question in Wisconsin politics today is the apparent alliance between those who are pushing for a highway bonding program and the trucking industry and its lobby."

He said the highway bonding-longer truck alliance "becomes more mysterious every day."

Dominic Frinzi, a Milwaukee attorney who also is seeking the gubernatorial nomination, criticized Knowles for not advancing the state freeway program. He said that each week, Knowles "has another highway building program that will accomplish less and less for the same one-cent gas tax increase."

"Lacks Courage"
 Frinzi said the only highways Knowles wants to bond for now are on the federal interstate system, "which is the only part of our highway system that is on schedule." He added that "Knowles 'lacks the courage to touch the local aids formulas that waste millions of our highway dollars.'"

"I would support no highway program that failed to give the cities and more populated areas a better break in highway aids distribution," Frinzi noted. He added he would oppose a gas tax increase, either for bonding interest or for a pay as you go plan. "The case for an increase has not been made," Frinzi said.

Carley wondered why the chairman of the State Highway Commission, "a foremost advocate of highway bonding, is working together with the trucking lobby in drafting a new 65-foot truck-trailer amendment?"

Lucey Lists Problems
 Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey, an unannounced contender for the gubernatorial nomination, told the delegates, "We must provide constructive solutions to the problems of water pollution, inadequate highways and in-

The mishap occurred where the new U.S. 10 beltline crosses old U.S. 10.

Damages to the car were estimated at more than $200.

Firemen Fight Fire in Storage Bins, Equipment for 10 Hours

WAUPACA — A fire of un-charcoal and the other 17 tons, determined origin early Sunday morning caused extensive damage to two large elevated storage bins at the Husky-Dominion charcoal briquet plant.

Waupaca firemen were called to the plant at 2:22 a.m. when city police spotted the blaze. The plant is located just outside the city limits in the Town of Waupaca.

Firemen worked for more than 10 hours employing raw charcoal from the two elevated storage bins and extinguishing the blaze. Fire Chief Bob Hansen said one storage bin contained more than 40 tons of given.

Plan Dissolving Bear Creek District to be Put to Vote

117 Sign Petition For Election

BEAR CREEK — School District electors will indicate whether or not they favor a proposal of Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) to dissolve the Bear Creek School District and attach the territory to the Clintonville School District.

The special meeting and advisory vote will be at 8 p.m., May 16, in the high school gymnasium, according to Henry Flanagan Jr., clerk of the Bear Creek District.

Petitions seeking the vote were signed by 117 persons who favor retaining the integrated grade and high school district in Bear Creek.

Retain Counsel
 If electors favor retaining the district, they will further be asked to decide whether to retain legal counsel to fight the CESA proposal.

The office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction has assured the district that it will receive the highest level of school aids for the 1966-67 school year, Flanagan said.

A public hearing on the CESA resolution has been scheduled for 8 p.m., May 23 in the high school.

The CESA resolution, presented recently at Fremont, is the result of a study made of the Bear Creek District by the State Department of Public Instruction. The study alleges that the district is too small to operate effectively and does not offer a broad curriculum.

The deadline for filing nomination papers with the clerk is 5 p.m. July 12.

The minimum number of signatures on nomination papers is 200 and the maximum 300, Backer said, regardless of party affiliation.

Ballots Cast
 The number of signatures needed is determined by the number of ballots cast for each candidate in the last presidential election.

President Lyndon Johnson received 6,990 votes in Waupaca County and Barry Goldwater, 3,381, which places both parties in the same 5,000 to 10,000-vote category.

Candidates must furnish their own nomination papers, Backer said.

Car Customers Not Concerned

BY BILL KNUSTON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If Appleton area residents are concerned about the new car safety issue that has jangled the nerves of the American auto industry, they are not displaying it in the salesroom, dealers contend.

Discussions last week with spokesmen for five major new car dealerships revealed that Ralph Nader and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's subcommittee have had little or no deterrent effect on local car sales — yet.

However, four of the five agreed that if the safety war continues to be waged on the Washington battlefield, area sales could slump.

Dealers and their representatives interviewed are affiliated with the sale of cars manufactured by General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors.

It could be expected that auto dealers, like those elsewhere, would take to task those who have been pounding the drums loudest in the safety drive.

And yet, one dealer was sympathetic with the efforts of Nader, who triggered the explosion with his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed," and with the lawmakers who are pushing for federal safety standards for the auto industry.

The local dealer sees the need for better basic construction in autos, heavier tires and better brakes.

He thinks today's buyer is aware of the safety issue and said that his customers do talk about it. He said, "It can't help but affect car sales here and everywhere else."

The dealer said he finds that owners of cars that have come under fire (and few have been excluded — from Volkswagen to Rolls Royce) "are worried about them."

Blames Drivers

The dealer was firm in his conviction that the driver is to blame in most accidents, and the auto industry alone should not be attacked.

In clarifying his first theory, he pointed to a car in his service department which, front end raised, was brought in for a new engine. The big car, about four years old, had seen more than 150,000 miles. Many parts, including brakes and the front end system, were worn, the dealer said, but the owner made no mention of replacing them.

"People just aren't safety conscious," the dealer explained. "We see it so many times every day in our shop."

He emphasized his conviction by showing a 1964 car in his shop for a brake repair. The brake linings were worn to bare metal in spots.

Part of Problem

In stating his second theory, the dealer explained, "We (the auto industry) are not angels, but we're only part of an overall problem."

He suggested "calling in" not only car manufacturers, but also the tire industry, windshield companies, auto worker unions, the liquor industry and insurance companies.

The same dealer scoffed at the publicity being given the calling in of cars for various corrective measures. Thus, he said, has been a common protective procedure for a number of years and is part of what he said is the factory and dealer's way of looking after the customer.

Said a dealer in a medium to high priced line of cars, "We can make the safest car in the world — put the driver in a real shelter — and who's going to buy it?" He contends people want a car that is "stylish."

Business Not Suffering

The same dealer stated, "My business is not suffering, but if this (the safety battle) goes on, it will hurt." He continued, speaking of the auto industry as a whole, "You're damaging something that comprises 5 per cent of the total economy."

A sales manager for a firm dealing in two makes of cars picked up a recent copy of "Automotive News," the car dealers' Wall Street Journal.

A paragraph under a page-one headline, "Selling or Safety Issue," summed up his feelings, he said. The paragraph read:

"But the typical new-car buyer, dealers say, still centers his interest on power and performance, styling, luxury and — as always — price. And when he drives in for service or to talk trade, chances are he's sitting on his seat belt."

The sales manager said the customer on his sales floor has not been talking safety features any more than usual and is not putting off buying until next year in anticipation of getting a safer car.

Cites Figures

Commenting on the effectiveness of the safety issue, the spokesman cited figures that showed one line of autos hit hard by Nader has jumped two positions in new car registration totals.

He said if there has been a 1 per cent drop in national sales, it has been because of increased excise taxes, higher interest rates on loans, stock market fluctuations and President Johnson's plea for slow spending.

New Patrolmen Join Force At Appleton

Police Seek Four Men to Fill Department Shortage

Two new patrolmen began service this morning with the Appleton police department.

Bay, a native of Glidden, attended Northland College after his graduation from Glidden High School in 1959. He also was in the Army, stationed in Okinawa.

Salzman said that with the hiring of Bay and Peirson, the police department is still four men short, and with the upcoming retirement of Sgt. Theodore Neuman, there will be a five-man shortage.

Total number of police personnel now, including meter maids, is 75. The department has started advertising in Northern Wisconsin papers for police candidates.

Peirson, a native of Saginaw, Mich., where he graduated from high school, has been employed at the Frederick H. Levey Co. in Menasha. He has lived in the area two years, coming from California.

In Oregon The new patrolman served on the Eugene, Ore., police force from 1955 to 1957. He was in the Air Force from 1949 through 1953, stationed much of the time in Alaska.

Peirson attended San Jose State College in California. He and his wife, Grace, have two sons.

Bay has been a fifth and sixth grade teacher in the Bowler Public Schools for two years. He and his wife, Liella, have one daughter.

governor) Gaylord Nelson "is going down the drain. Knowles wants to turn the program over to the legislators for pork barreling." He charged that the Republicans have "split the state into four parts so they can get elected."

Assemblyman Frank Nikolay (Abbotsford), Assembly floor leader, told the delegates Knowles has "avoided leadership by saying problems of the state are legislative matters and not his."

He added that Knowles "can't get his own programs out of the Senate. Bills passed in the Assembly are bogged down in the Senate."

Challenge Laird The delegates adopted a resolution challenging 7th District Rep. Melvin Laird (R-Marshfield) "to explain to the people of this district exactly what programs he considers to be unrealistic and non-essential" and which in his opinion should be eliminated.

The resolution stated Laird would like to eliminate current legislation designed to improve education, water pollution abatement, conservation, agriculture, civil rights and medical care for the aged.

The resolution charged that Laird "and his faction of Republicanism are interested not in a progressive American economy, but rather in power for the small minority they really represent."

Other resolutions adopted: —Commended Democrats in Madison for putting the welfare of the state above politics —Urged 100 per cent parity for farmers.

—Urged repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Law, which allows states to enact right to work laws.

Susan Klundt, Neenah, secretary of the year; Gilbert Hietpas, Little Chute, second year accounting; Stephen Johnson, New London, and Walter Frahm, Appleton, first year accounting competency;

The Appleton chapter also presented a skit at the Friday evening social program. Participants were Bradley Miller, Gilbert Hietpas, Gail Pingel, Linda Schrieber, Ponschock, James Schmidt, Kautz and Miss Pappas.

Thirteen delegates and two faculty advisers from AVS attended the convention, and 21 Wisconsin vocational schools participated.

Darla Zillmer, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zillmer, route 1, Clintonville, is valedictorian of the Marion High School Class of 1966 and Karen Genskow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Genskow, Marion, is salutatorian.

Women Wear Poppies Hat Competition Marks King Auxiliary Parley

KING—More than 150 American Legion Auxiliary members from the six counties of District 8 assembled here Saturday for the 43rd annual spring conference. The district is made up of Waupaca, Waushara, Shawano, Portage, Marathon and Wood counties.

The day-long program, highlighted by a poppy hat contest, was held at the Grand Army Home for Veterans. This year's contest winner was Mrs. John Menacher, 505 S. Weed St., Shawano. Her entry was a hat resembling an inverted crown.

It was made of 32 poppies. Mrs. Jack Abraham, Fremont, was the second place winner and Mrs. Ernie Dahlman, Stevens Point, was third.

Each auxiliary unit in the district was allowed one entry in the hat contest. Delegates at the conference cast ballots to determine the winner. Mrs. Menacher will now enter her hat in the state contest in Eau Claire in July.

King auxiliary unit 161 was host to the conference. Reports were given by representatives from each unit as well as the district officers. The department president, Mrs. William Buckeridge, Oconomowoc, spoke. Mrs. Alice Etheridge, Fremont, was also present.

Boat, Vacation Show Considered Successful

NEW LONDON — The second annual Boat and Vacation Show here Saturday was such a success that the program will probably be expanded for the second straight time.

Some 1,500 persons toured the parking lot of the First State Bank, to view the boating and camping facilities displayed.

This was about double the 1965 crowd.

A special prize of a 16-foot fiberglass canoe manufactured by Glass Fab, Inc., New London, was won by Jim Reidenbach, 210 W. Pine St. The boat show was held between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Show participants, dealers and visitors were highly enthused despite the cold weather.

Trucks and Highways

The effort of some members of the legislature to introduce the enormously controversial question of commercial truck lengths into the Knowles administration bill to authorize an accelerated state highway improvement program is one of the most egregious blunders in politics Madison has witnessed for a long time.

Not only does it almost surely amount to a death warrant for the truck measure which had already managed to get an approving vote in the state assembly many months ago, but it surrounds the administration's otherwise defensible and wise highway funding bill with the extraneous arguments associated with truck regulation.

That Gov. Knowles promptly scented the peril in which his highway bill had been put was indicated clearly enough by his instantaneous statement deploring the truck amendment, and his declaration that he has no intention of signing into law the proposal for extending the legal length limit on heavy commercial vehicles using the roads.

These columns have observed on other occasions that the truck length issue is a difficult one, and that the commercial interests involved are entitled to make the best case they can on their own behalf. We have said also that the issue is a doubtful one, on which the public and the legislature deserves considerably more information than has yet been put on the record.

Longer trucks on four lane highways built to freeway standards conceivably may be justified, and accepted by the general public. But the thought of such huge vehicles as the 65 foot models now envisioned on the lesser roads is clearly intolerable. The question remains to be explained: how would the longer trucks involved in this dispute reach the four lane Interstate highways — of which Wisconsin has been granted a relatively small mileage — from their terminals in Green Bay or Appleton or Fond du Lac, or even Milwaukee?

The more important point in the current Madison imbroglio, however, is the utter irrelevance of the regulatory issue to the question of financing a speeded construction program. The legislature has a rule that amendments must be germane. No doubt this amendment will have been withdrawn or killed long before the issue of germaneness can be raised on the floor, but it is surely involved. It would be as logical to hang a driver's license amendment on the University budget bill, or to attach a fur trapping amendment to a legal printing bill.

Somebody has goofed, and badly, and the only thing the legislature can do now in good conscience and in a decent regard for public opinion is to expunge the record as quickly as it can do so.

Trade With Eastern European Nations

There is no expectation that President Johnson's proposal that the United States offer most-favored-nation status to all Eastern European nations will be acted upon in this session of Congress. But it assuredly is worth consideration. The suggestion coincides with a new effort among the members of the Warsaw Pact for more extensive trade and diplomatic relations with Western Europe.

The Warsaw Pact move is not aimed at encouraging United States participation. In fact it may be exactly the opposite as a meeting on the matter is scheduled to follow President De Gaulle's visit in Moscow late in June. The French President's major aim in his various unilateral moves in Europe probably is to reduce American influence in the affairs of Western Europe. But it also must be suspected that he has in mind more extensive French-Russian relations to try to balance any new resurgence of West German economic and military strength.

At present the United States offers most-favored-nation status only to Poland and Yugoslavia among Communist nations. This means that these countries are able to trade with the United States on equally favorable terms as can non-Communist nations of the world. Yugoslavia obviously was given the status because of its one-time independent attitude toward controls from the Kremlin. Poland has almost always had a special place in American relations in part because of the large number of Polish-Americans. There is little evidence that Poland is any more a captive nation than are the other Eastern European satellites. But the recent refusal of Premier Gomulka to permit Pope Paul VI to visit Warsaw for the 1,000th anniversary of the coming of Christianity to Poland indicates a tight Communist control whatever the opinions of the majority of Poles.

Obscenity Decision Dangerous

Although there has been little in the way of "cultural" defense of Ralph Ginzberg and his lip-licking publication Eros since the United States Supreme Court upheld his conviction on a charge of obscenity, there has been a growing concern about the decision itself. Numerous authors and newspapers have criticized the decision as expanding the idea of obscenity from the work to the way it is advertised and predict future trouble.

An editorial in the Christian Century has warned that "demons far more perilous than sexual wantonness" in the form of a federal censorship may arise because of the court's decision. "The introduction of advertising and promotion as factors in the testing of obscenity clouds rather than clarifies the problem, for by this test the Bible, a Sears Roebuck catalogue and Little Women could be made obscene even though not obscene per se."

The difficulty in defining obscenity is the real problem, according to the editorial. "To be sure there are many people who cannot spell the word but who are positive that they can define what is and what is not obscene. They know. But nine of the wisest men in the United States do not know ... Subjective analysis, the probing of people's motives, the sampling of public taste—these are not solid foundations on which to erect the nation's laws."

The Court has turned down an appeal to review the case and Ginzberg will go to prison, probably for about two years. The decision may cut back on some of the more distasteful and lurid advertising of films and publications. But over-all, the court's decision has done more to confuse the issue of obscenity and to demonstrate that its definition is practically impossible.

Looking Backward

Alex Randall Staunch, Steadfast

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from Appleton Crescent for May 5, 1866.

Alex W. Randall, while Governor of Wisconsin in 1861, stood higher in the estimation of those who were striving to put down the rebellion than any other western executive.

The volunteers in the field and the true citizens at home did not then for a moment doubt that he was an unconditional Union man whether success or defeat hung over the battle-fields of that trying year. He has not changed.

Today, he is just as earnest for the Restoration of the Union, and the supremacy of the Constitution and the Laws, as he was then. Then, he opposed secessionism and treason in the South. Today he is branded as "a semi-secessionist" by the Chicago traitorous newspapers, and was dubbed a "deserter" by Wisconsin prints of the Destructive stripe.

Let him stand fast! Forty thousand surviving Wisconsin soldiers will stand by him in beating down the Sumners, the Wades, Howes and the cowardly spawn who uphold their treasonable policy.

The Vietnamese Crisis—III

Militant Buddhists and Moderate Catholics Could be Strong Force

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

SAIGON — Mention the Catholics of South Viet Nam and most Americans think of people who are first, fervently anti-Communist, and only next Vietnamese. But that is not even a half-truth.

To be sure, about half of the 1½ million Catholics in South Viet Nam are refugees who fled their native villages when the Communists took over North Viet Nam in 1954. Most of these refugees are settled around Saigon in small, often armed, villages dominated by the local parish priest.

Kraft

Thus cut adrift from their old moorings and isolated in present surroundings, the refugees represent a potent mass, easy to stir against any regime suspected of being willing to negotiate with the other side — the more so, since the fall of their great patron, the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. They are, in the words of one high official in the American embassy, "like medieval fanatics." They have tended to form the popular backbone of the recent military regimes, and to be the death weapon against more moderate regimes.

Used to Co-Existing But the other half of the Catholic population — the Catholics native to the southern and central regions of this country — are by no means fanatic, or even edgy. They are used to co-existing as a minority with a large Buddhist majority. Through the archbishop of Saigon, Nguyen Van Binh, they have felt the influence of the updating that has recently come to dominate attitudes in the Vatican. To some extent, Archbishop Binh has even been able to take in tow the chief refugee leader, the Rev. Hoang Quynh.

The institution for this takeover by the more moderate Catholics of South Viet Nam has been the liaison office of the archbishop of Saigon. Over the past year the office has been issuing a series of communiques on political subjects. And these communiques are a good index of the moderate thinking of the archbishop, indeed of his tendency to co-operate with the militant Buddhists, on many issues.

ard Miller and Charles Benjamin.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, May 7, 1956.

Oshkosh speakers were to appear before two Winnebago men's groups that month. Charles DeBarca was to speak before the Civic League and attorney Charles Barnard was to address the Winnebago Businessmen's Association.

The 3-year-old Needles, jockey Dave Erb up, won the Kentucky Derby the previous Saturday. He ran just ahead of Fabius in an exciting race in 2:03.4, behind the record-setter Whirlaway in 1941 with 2:01.4.

Robert Bauer, Appleton, took top honors at the teen-age Road-e-o sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Valley Fair parking lot.

For example, in its fourth communique put out in November of last year, the liaison office made an obvious effort to have all Catholics work to co-operate with the Buddhists. The communique said: "The office calls upon the faithful to pay very careful attention when speaking or writing on matters related to other religions, strictly avoiding any actions which might be harmful to friendly relations."

Seek Balance of Power In its fifth communique, issued on Jan. 7 of this year, the liaison office lined up with the Buddhists in supporting a compromise negotiated end to the war. The communique said "Peace can only be founded on a balance of military and political forces which would prevent the danger of destruction of either belligerent party."

Most recently, the more moderate Catholics seem to have been working with the Buddhists against the military government of Air Marshall Nguyen Cao Ky. During the whole period of active Buddhist demonstrations against the government, there was not a single counterdemonstration by the Catholics. And the most recent communique of the liaison committee, issued on April 6 said: "The most pressing problem ... is the present political vacuum. . . . The political situation in South Viet Nam is still a cold emptiness. The authorities are still unable to lay a legal foundation for the country, and they still lack the support of the people."

In short, the Catholics native to South Viet Nam led by the highest authority in the local hierarchy are not far distant from the position of the militant Buddhists under Bonze Thich Tri Quang. That chance depends to a large extent on what the United States does, or does not do, in the period leading up to the elections and to that subject I will devote the concluding column in this series.

A government based on the majority could transform the situation here. It would at long last command the loyalties and faith of the most dynamic political forces in the country, and it could enlist these forces in support of the war effort. It could finally activate the pacification campaign which is now more than ever necessary as a supplement to American military successes. And such a government, when negotiations became possible, would be in strong position to be a reliable opposite number to the Viet Cong rebels.

To be sure, the Ky government, the old political parties and the undisciplined fanatics among the Catholic refugees are now at work trying to break up the prospective working alliance between Buddhist militants and moderate Catholics. These forces have produced recent anti-Buddhist demonstrations in Quang Ngai, in Dalat and in Saigon. They have inspired repeated statements emphasizing the dangers of elections.

Indeed, the election campaign is already shaping up as a struggle between the government, on the one hand, and the Buddhists on the other, for the support of the Catholics and the local notables of Saigon and the delta region. As a matter of fact, the winning combination will probably be a coalition of the present government, the Catholic refugees and the old-fashioned notables of the South. In that case, it seems to me that the essentially political struggle in South Viet Nam will have been lost.

But it also seems to me that there is a dim chance of promoting the alliance between Catholic moderates and militant Buddhists from which so much could flow. That chance depends to a large extent on what the United States does, or does not do, in the period leading up to the elections and to that subject I will devote the concluding column in this series.

Dodd Case Points Up That Being Politician Takes a Lot of Money

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

WASHINGTON — It is impossible to avoid discussion with the politicians in the national capital about the Dodd case and what it suggests about a dangerous and worrisome twilight zone in American politics.

Wyngaard

Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut is the central figure in a bitterly boiling dispute about political financing. He is accused of having diverted to his private use large sums of money ostensibly solicited for covering the costs of his senatorial campaign. There are demands for a Senate investigation. Whether they will be approved remains to be seen. A casual survey creates the impression that there is some reluctance to do so and that few members of Congress or other professional politicians here would willingly expose some of the most equivocal aspects of present day financing, involving politicians of all points of view and both parties.

WISCONSIN REVIEW

The Wisconsin Legislature recently authorized a special interim committee review of existing state law dealing with election expenditure controls. Because that committee has shown an inclination to rewrite the Wisconsin elections code completely, the implications in the Dodd dispute here have a special pertinence.

What makes the Dodd incident so intriguing is the claim that receipts from testimonial dinners held for him were not campaign donations, and thus not reportable under the election control laws, and did not represent income and thus were not reportable for income tax assessment purposes.

They were intended as gifts, it is argued, provided freely by friends and well-wishers who recognize the fact that holding high public office in this country and performing the duties of such office in the way constituents desire involve heavy out-of-pocket expenses for travel and other purposes that cannot be met out of the public man's salary.

That the politician without private means finds service in a high public office a difficult and costly experience cannot be debated. Virtually all of the Wisconsin public figures I know who do not have private wealth to draw upon are constantly worried about their financial positions.

The auxiliary expense account device has been disclosed on other occasions. But in the comparatively rigorous atmosphere of public control and information that has characterized Wisconsin, these devices raise important and troublesome questions, nevertheless. One of them is the obvious possibility that in the absence of public accounting and regulations, the public officer may find the temptation to enrich his own bank account irresistible. Another is the obvious advantage the incumbent possesses — in a congressional seat or elsewhere — in raising such funds over the private citizen who may wish to challenge him in the election.

WHO WOULD DECLINE?

Washington, like Madison, has scores of lobbyists and other agents who are captive donors in such situations. Who would dare to decline the purchase of dinner tickets offered by a ranking U. S. senator, in a distant state, Senator? But the political rival of that senator, in a distant state, might extend invitations in vain to the same persons. In the District of Columbia, moreover, there is no public reporting requirement on campaign contributions. Such solicitations can be made here with impunity, without any knowledge among constituents who may be interested.

The Wisconsin election code has always emphasized publicity, on the assumption that excessive or improper solicitation or receipts will provide their own penalty in an offended electorate. But there are real questions about the effectiveness of the enforcement of the state laws, which the testimonial dinner device makes even more pressing.

The whole issue of campaign financing touches the integrity of the election process, as most politicians know, but hesitate to comment upon because they cannot devise a workable solution.

Strictly Personal

Few Know Why They Become This or That

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A group of college students in an English class recently asked me: "Why did you become a writer?" I shrugged and said, "Because there was nothing else that I was good at."

Harris

But it was a serious question, and I fluffed it off only because there was no time to discuss it in depth. Actually, no one ever really knows why he "goes" into any profession or occupation, unless it happens to be sheer chance or accident. And I don't believe there is much accident in such matters.

Why do certain men become policemen? If we knew the whole complex of reasons, we might have a better understanding of law enforcement, and how to improve it — especially in the human relations aspect, which is deplorable in most cities.

Why do men become doctors? There are many surface reasons, of course — prestige, scientific curiosity, family background, and so on. But the unconscious reasons may be as strong, or even stronger, in motivating a young man through the obstacle course of medical training.

One suggestion I recently ran across comes from a widely respected doctor, Dr. Herman Feifel of Los Angeles VA Hospital, and the author of a pioneering study, "The Meaning of Death."

Dr. Feifel contends that one important reason men become doctors is to control their own excessive fear of death. By becoming a doctor, he says, a man "secures himself against the jeopardy of death, and obtains dominion over his own anxiety, by having the power to cure."

This may seem like arrant nonsense to most doctors, but patients who have observed many physicians "playing God" and assuming the mantle of omnipotence may not so quickly pool-pool the notion. There is a "magic quality" in medicine, for the doctor as well as for the patient; and the primitive witch-doctor is not as far removed from the modern specialist as we sometimes like to think.

What about writers? Their deeper motivations, too, may have little relation to the art of words or expressing thoughts. Perhaps they were not listened to as children; perhaps they, too, use words as a kind of magic to ward off the anxieties of realistic living. And, quite likely, they adopt the "might of the pen" to serve as lance and armor against some real or fancied weakness in their own nature.

Knowing why we "become" certain things is not merely an exercise in introspection or a self-indulgence — for such knowledge can be used as a professional tool to deepen our relations with others, and to help us guard against those negative, or hostile, motives that inevitably color and deform our higher, and more conscious, goals in life.

BY DAVID BROOKER

A full house got a full evening of music from Appleton MacDowell Male Chorus Saturday night.

The Lawrence Memorial Chapel was sold out almost a week before the concert. The hall filled early because ticket holders feared they might not get a seat. As it turned out, there were a few sold but vacant places. Even so, the early comers, along with the rest, seemed to find the program well worth waiting for.

It was MacDowell's third formal appearance of the season. At Reedsville and Marshfield the 56 men sang to small but enthusiastic audiences. Here at home it was a large and enthusiastic audience. As Conductor Edwin F. Zordel noted before the first of two encores, the home crowd is always the best. And, as usual, MacDowell was at its best before the home folks.

Three Sections

The 32nd annual concert entitled "Say It With Music" was presented in three sections. Staging, managed by James Zulger, was on the informal side as western-garbed singers sat around campfires and relaxed under lifelike greenery for the "Smoldering Embers" section. The Les Schmidt Trio provided suitable and competent accompaniment for "Say It With Music." "I See the Moon," "The Halls of Ivy" with Harry Pritzl as soloist, "Dear Heart," "Memories" and "A Perfect Day."

Chorus members were back in their traditional tuxedos for the religious numbers, with regular accompaniment, David the "Sense and Nonsense" portion of the program. Two male chorus favorites, "Prayer," "Stouthearted Men" and "Quit You Like Men" were followed by the tender "Come to Me, Bend to Me." The audience believed it when the men declared "There is Nothing Like a Dame" and listened attentively as soloist Victor Pritzl related the sad story of "John Henry," the steel driving man.

Then it was fun time with "De Animals A-Comin'" and "Blow the Man Down." The listeners roared when Harry Pritzl, the burly, gravel-voiced sergeant, got his comeuppance in "Old King Cole." They called Neenah.

The chorus back for "Raccoon Hunt," a dignified little ditty featuring a shotgun-toting soloist, Leonard Hanstedt, a furry victim and a pack of bound dogs.

The audience asked for still caime, route 2, Country Es-mo and things wound up with tates, Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. well that ends well called "The Rooster and the Chickens."

Many of the paying customers thought the program was "the best ever." Those of us on stage Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. say "Thanks — and the same to Sanderfoot, 515 E. Second St., Kimberly.

May Deadline For Doctor Bill Insurance

May 31 is the registration deadline for doctor bill insurance under the Social Security program for those who are 65 years old before March 1 and who want to be covered when the insurance takes effect July 1.

Social security beneficiaries automatically are enrolled in a hospital insurance program through Medicare, but special registration is needed for the doctor bill coverage. Cost of the insurance is $3 a month.

Those now eligible for the insurance who do not enroll will have to wait until October, 1967, before they again will be eligible. Those becoming eligible should register at least a month before their birthday to be covered when they become 65.

The Appleton Social Security office is at 401 S. Elm St.

Rulings Changing Drunkenness Status

Some Districts Currently Bound To Treat Alcoholics as Sick People

By BARRY SCHWEID — WASHINGTON (AP) — Each year the bottle is taken away from hundreds of thousands of Americans long enough for them to be arrested and tried on drunk charges.

For most, it's a numb shuffle that ends where it began—on the streets or in the gutter. But now, a quiet revolution in the law may be pointing the way toward hope.

Two federal circuit court decisions are giving the revolution steam and direction. And last week, an Oakland judge named Thomas F. Budd asked the Supreme Court to rule as the two circuit courts have. That a chronic alcoholic is a sick person who cannot be treated by the law as a criminal for drunkenness alone.

Chronic Alcoholics — Budd has been arrested 34 times on drunkenness charges and has been described in medical testimony as a chronic alcoholic.

If the Supreme Court takes Budd's case and so rules, its decision will be binding on all the courts.

The two federal courts, the 4th Circuit in Richmond, Va., and the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, partly pegged their rulings to a 1962 Supreme Court decision that

Reynolds Boosts Tobacco Prices

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., which rescinded a cigarette price increase in March at the urging of the White House, says it no longer can avoid a boost. The company announced Friday the price of regular-size cigarettes will go from $8.80 per thousand to $9, less 2 per cent discount. King-size brands will go from $9 to $9.20. Reynolds said this still would be 20 per cent less than the price hike it announced in March. The company said the lower prices have not increased sales enough to offset increased costs. The White House has asked the company to hold prices down to help combat inflation.

Goats Trim Grass

CHRISTOPHER, Ill. (AP) — The City Council says "b-a-a!" to paying $1,000 a year to mow the grass on city-owned land. Instead it will spend $20 for six goats to keep the grass closely trimmed.

4th Circuit Court reversed the two-year prison sentence of Joe B. Driver, 59, of Durham, N.C., who had been convicted for public drunkenness — as he had more than 200 times before.

Government sources say they need time to provide facilities other than jail for chronic alcoholics. One judge, who asked that his name not be used, said:

"We are still sentencing defendants to jail on drunkenness convictions because we have no place else to send them."

Last month, Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland proposed a $10-million program to study and plan alcoholic treatment centers.

In Virginia, The General Assembly passed a bill this year giving courts the option of turning anyone acquitted of drunkenness "for reason of being an alcoholic" to the care of the Welfare Department, the Mental Hygiene Department or the State Health Department.

Treatment Center — The legislation also would provide a million dollars for an "alcoholic treatment center at Richmond, but Dr. Ebbe Hoffe, director of the Division of Alcohol Studies, points out it will only be a 50-bed unit.

In Charleston, S.C., Municipal Court Judge Elliott T. Halio says he has been unable to comply with the Driver ruling because of a lack of facilities.

"I think the state needs rehabilitation facilities for these drunks," Halio says. "But until you have the facilities where you can put them, what are you going to do?"

D.C. Mason Jr., a member of South Carolina's Alcoholic Commission, says "we need more facilities before we need laws."

In Charlotte, N.C., Recorder's Court Judge P.B. Beachum Jr. is enthusiastic about the Driver ruling, but points at the same time to inadequate facilities.

"I don't have any desire to punish the chronic alcoholic," Beachum says. "When that man comes before me, all I want to do is help him."

Law for Courts

The 4th Circuit Court ruling is binding on courts in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. The Circuit Court ruling here is law for Washington courts.

And yet, at the local drunk court level, the bottom rung in the judicial ladder, the revolution is barely above the starting stage across the land.

Beset by a lack of facilities, law enforcement authorities are hard-pressed to find other means of handling the alcoholics who crowd the skid rows in big cities and the local drunks who reel about many small towns.

Washington is a prime example of the problem.

There have been 22,000 drunk cases in court yearly, only 40 beds are available to accommodate alcoholic patients at D.C. General Hospital.

On any given day, about 1,000 persons who have been convicted on drunk charges can be found on a 3,500-acre reservation operated by the District of Columbia at Occoquan, Va., 20 miles to the south, where the treatment mainly is abstinence, diet, farm work and some medical attention.

Controlled Atmosphere — But this is a special rural setting and William Ray Nelson, assistant director of the D.C. Department of Corrections, says "treatment for alcoholism should be in a controlled atmosphere in the community where the problems are."

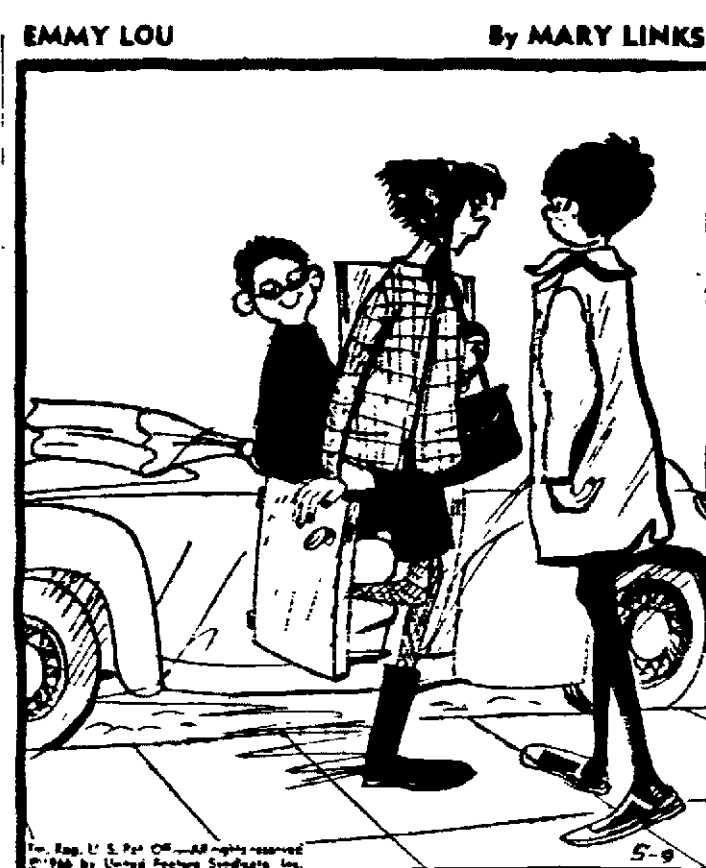

The Public Health Department has proposed establishment of a detoxification unit, a 50-bed medical facility that would be a first step to a full-scale treatment center.

There would be doctors, nurses, welfare workers and blood tests to detect ailments that bedevil alcoholics.

In Washington courts, only a few of the habitual drunks who appear before judges have raised the new defense of chronic alcoholism.

Three died in one day — three of the 166 who passed before Judge Thomas C. Scalley — and one changed his mind, preferring a 15-day sentence to being sent to D.C. General Hospital for 90 days.

No Change — In Maryland, court observers have found no difference in the handling of alcoholics since the

Plan Would Put CATV Under Copyright Law

House Committee Outlines 3-Part Answer to Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Community antenna television systems would be brought under copyright laws under certain conditions in a proposal agreed to by a House judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee, which is writing a general overhaul of the copyright laws, disclosed a complicated, three-part solution Friday to the problem posed by the community antenna systems (CATV).

At present, CATV, which intercepts programs originated by transmitting stations and retransmits them to paying customers by wire connections to their home, is not covered by copyright law.

Three Categories — The subcommittee would divide CATV operations into three categories, "white," "black" and "gray," and treat each differently, as follows:

In the white area, which covers retransmissions solely within the area served by the primary broadcaster, CATV would be exempted from copyright.

In the black area, covering retransmission beyond the area served by the primary broadcaster into an area already served by other broadcasters, none of whom are licensed to carry the program, CATV would be liable for copyright infringement.

"Gray Area" — In the gray area, that beyond the primary broadcaster's service area in an area served by another broadcaster who is licensed to carry the same program, or where there is no other broadcaster, a "reasonable" license fee would be required. The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., made public the proposal in a letter to Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, which is also considering legislation covering CATV.

Martha's Vineyard Has Another Holdup

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. (AP) — A masked gunman who held up a bartender here and escaped with $226 last week ended a long and proud record of this island resort community.

Island police had to have their first holdup investigation since the 1880's.

Totalitarianism Is U. S. Youth, Sociologist Says

CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — There are distinct signs of growth of a totalitarian mentality in American youth, Dr. C.W. Hobart of the University of Alberta said Saturday. Hobart, a sociology professor, told an Alberta youth seminar that results of studies on U.S. high school students showed: More than 50 per cent of the students surveyed think the large mass of Americans simply are not capable of deciding for themselves what is right and what is wrong.

Sixty per cent favor censorship of books, newspapers and magazines.

Fifty-eight per cent do not object to the use of third-degree methods by the police in extracting confessions.

Alabama GOP Hopeful Lauds Gov. Wallace

Rep. Martin Needs
Negroes, but Speaks
Against Integration

Evans Novak

Alabama — one white and one Negro — to meet Federal desegregation guidelines. This "outrage," stormed Martin, constituted an "inhumane act of using mental patients as pawns in the game of winning votes of minority groups which seems to be the sole occupation of this (Johnson) Administration." He then inserted in the Record an editorial praising Gov. George Wallace for intervening against the proposed transfer of mental patients.

Such an outburst would scarcely be exceptional, coming from a Southern congressman, save for the fact that Martin will be the Republican nominee for governor. His foe: Democratic nominee Lurleen Wallace, stand-in for her husband (who is barred from succeeding himself).

What's more, Lurleen's breathtaking victory in the Democratic primary May 3 shows that Wallace has cornered the hard-core segregationist vote in Alabama. Thus, Martin, in order to win, must get Alabama's Negro vote. Ironically, then, Jim Martin's political future depends on "the game of winning votes of minority groups."

Until Tuesday, Martin seemed a solid favorite to be elected governor. A secret poll conducted about a month ago by a highly respected pollster showed Martin running ahead of every Democratic possibility — including Mrs. Wallace. Of all the Democrats, she was the only one to show up well, trailing Martin by only 52 per cent to 48 per cent.

But the Wallace showing surprised everybody as an exhibit of the governor's grip on rural white Alabama. Thus, even granting that 25 to 30 per cent of the state's white voters (mainly in the big cities and suburbs) are now dyed-in-the-wool Republicans, Martin needs heavy, unified Negro backing to win.

Highly Flexible Despite continuing his play for the segregationist vote, Martin is a nimble politician who shows significant signs of flexibility. For instance, as recently as last summer he was the only Alabama Republican congressman who privately described himself as a segregationist. Now he bristles when the term is applied to him.

More to the point, Martin has been trying clandestinely to build a base of Negro support — carefully concealing it from his segregationist support.

Yet Martin needs more than a clandestine movement to win Negro votes. The all-Negro Black Panther Party (sponsored by the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee) has been urging Negroes to boycott the Republican and Democratic parties. But even beyond the extremist fringe of the civil rights movement, there will be solid advice to Negroes to stand

13 Killed in Illinois Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Auto accidents this past week-end on Illinois streets and highways accounted for 13 fatalities. The largest loss of life in a single accident occurred Sunday on the Eisenhower Expressway in the Chicago suburb of Oak Park.

Three persons were killed and two injured in the fiery three-car collision. Dead were Leroy E. Crane, 42; Mrs. Jewel Clark, 32, and Miss Mildred Waters, 43, all of Chicago.

clear of the Martin-Wallace showdown. For instance, Dr. John Nixon, of Birmingham, the state NAACP leader — and activist but no extremist — believes the Alabama Negro should not give his vote to a candidate who does not ask for it.

If Alabama Republicans could bring themselves to make such a request, the reward might transcend the efforts. Sen. John Sparkman's renomination on Tuesday with approximately two-thirds of the vote against a grab-bag collection of three toes was not impressive.

Thus, a Republican candidate of the stature of Winton (Red) Blount, the Montgomery construction magnate, might have a chance against Sparkman. Blount, who as state Chamber of Commerce president last year took a stand against Wallace racism, might also add a touch of moderation to Martin's candidacy.

But it is unlikely Blount will run. Nor does it appear that Martin is much interested in the Negro vote if he puts Wallace material into the Congressional record.

For the Republican party built in Alabama by the Jim Martins is essentially a white man's party. Now that Martin must make it bi-racial to be elected, he may find it difficult to change in mid-stream. But Martin must show more pragmatism than he has thus far.

Because a doctrinaire racial stance taken by the new Republican party the deep South will prove its undoing, just as liberal Republicans have always predicted.

Mansfield Proposes U. S. Recognition

W. Fulbright's view that American forces in Viet Nam have turned Saigon into a brothel. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, expressed this view in a speech last Thursday night.

"It just isn't true," said Rusk. He said Fulbright's allegations reflect "unfairly and inaccurately on what our men are doing over there."

Rusk also took issue with comments made Sunday by historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. on the CBS television program "Face the Nation."

Schlesinger said Johnson lacks the judgment to overrule wrong advice about Viet Nam from the State Department and the military. He said "the notion that the Viet Cong equals Hanoi equals Peking seems to me crazy." And he said there is fear among intellectuals that Johnson "is not in personal control of his government."

Asked about Schlesinger's statements, Rusk said "Mr. Schlesinger is not an expert on Asia. He played a very small role on Asian questions when he was in the government."

The American ambassador to Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrives in Washington late today for consultations on the situation in South Viet Nam. He is expected to meet with President Johnson Tuesday or Wednesday.

Wants Recognition
Mansfield said in an interview that while Viet Nam poses problems for any action at this time, "I would like to see recognition given to Outer Mongolia."

"I believe such action on our part would contribute toward the relaxation of international tensions," he said. "It would also give us a valuable listening post in that part of the world."

The State Department recently said the possible establishment of diplomatic relations with Mongolia was under study. Mansfield said he is informed Mongolia is eager to establish relations but that the United States has held back. He said Mongolia fears mainland China, which regards the area as its own. Mongolia leans toward the Soviet Union at this point, he added.

The Republic of China on Formosa does not recognize Mongolia as an independent state and would object strenuously to U.S. recognition.

Delicate Matter
Mansfield said he thinks the Kennedy-McGovern commission proposal has a great deal of merit.

"I am sure the State Department has been studying and reviewing China policies for a long time," he said. "But it seems to me the recent hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on China have given impetus to a further move to review those policies."

Mansfield indicated he believes the establishment of such a commission depends on President Johnson's attitude.

It would be "a delicate matter," Mansfield said, for Congress to act independently of the President to set up a commission on international policies.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said the commission "might be helpful." But Javits added, in an appearance on the Mutual Broadcasting System's "Reporters Roundup," that the main issue should be a peace settlement in Viet Nam.

Justice Warren Urges Law, Ethics Institute

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren urges establishment of an institute on law and ethics, declaring that "without moral commitment of the people to obey, the law is quite helpless."

Warren spoke Sunday night at the 50th anniversary dinner of the Jewish Theological Seminary.

He recommended that the seminary establish such an institute, with its aim "the exploration of the manner in which ethical insights affect the law and in turn that in which law affects the ethical insights."

One question the institute could take up, he said, is the effect of war in breaking down morality.

Ocelot in Engine, Not Tiger in Tank

CLAWSON, Mich. (AP) — "Officer," said the caller. "I got a tiger under the hood of my car."

It was a live ocelot under the hood of Bruce Crandall's car, nuzzling the manifold.

Sgt. Donald Smith and Officer Fred McIntyre extracted the animal with a dog warden's pole and loop.

William Vigus of Rochester claimed the 2-year-old beast, a pet named Ocie. He said the animal, a gift from his son in Nicaragua, had run off March 30.

A tropical animal, Ocie often crawled under car hoods for warmth, Vigus told police in this Detroit suburb.

Connally Visits, Too

Mexican Minister Guest at LBJ Ranch

By FRANK CORMIER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson entertains Mexico's foreign minister, Antonio Carrillo Flores, at his LBJ Ranch today as he nears the end of a long weekend in Texas.

Carrillo flew to Texas from Washington Sunday night with his wife and daughter. Larges They were to leave later today.

The visit was not announced by the Texas White House until after the Mexican official and his family had arrived at the President's home near Johnson City, some 60 miles north of here. This was one of several indications the informal affair had been arranged somewhat hastily.

Unscheduled Visit
Flying to the ranch with Carrillo was Johnson's press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, who had not been expected either.

The Mexican diplomat helped entertain the President and Mrs. Johnson in Mexico City last month.

While there has been no firm word when the Johnsons will return to Washington, the president said last Wednesday he planned to stay until tonight or Tuesday morning.

The Johnsons had other announced guests at the ranch Sunday — Texas Gov. and Mrs.

'Face Up' to Problems Says Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's Selective Service director said today persons proposing major changes in the military draft should "face up to the complications" that could be encountered in alternate systems.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey commented after a group of educators and civic and government officials in New York substantially approved Sunday a plan that proponents said would replace what they termed the guesswork, uncertainties and ineptitudes in the present draft system.

Not Official Standing

The conference, in a statement said "a young man should have the option in an uncomplicated manner of fulfilling his service obligation through participation in specified nonmilitary activities."

It added "there appeared to be general agreement that in order to reduce draft inequities serious consideration should be given to eliminating student deferments and to instituting a combined lottery-alternative service system."

The conference had no official standing. Those attending said they were interested in arousing widespread discussion of the entire draft situation, which Congress must review by July 1, 1967, when the current law expires.

would save Allen's life, the doctor broke the news to the stricken man's wife, Anita. She has been in seclusion and under a doctor's care since.

Doctors at the Roswell Park Institute said they did not think the two men had died in vain. "The deaths of Mr. Allen and Mr. Griffith are regretted here," a spokesman at the institute said. "Both men knew that the method, at best, was highly experimental and unproven. Apparently, in these two cases, the procedure was of little value."

The spokesman said the knowledge gained from the experiments "has been beneficial" to cancer research.

Specialists hoped the transfer of cancer tissue would produce antibodies in the blood of both Allen and help stop the spread of cancer.

"Apparently the surgery was performed too late. There is a possibility that if they had gotten to him sooner, something might have been worked out," Von Dedenroth said.

Warden Among State Weekend Traffic Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A conservation warden has been killed in a Price County automobile accident that occurred while he was chasing persons suspected of illegal spear fishing.

The warden's death, one of two reported during the weekend, raised Wisconsin's 1966 highway toll to 275, five below the total for last year at this time.

Robert Markle, 54, of Park Falls, a conservation warden, was killed Sunday when he lost control of his car on the Bass Lake Road, the Price County Sheriff's Office said. The car was overturned.

Markle was chasing persons suspected of spearing fish in the lake area, the sheriff's office said. The suspects escaped.

The warden's death was the first traffic fatality of the year in the county.

Ardell Jabe Bronstad, 20, of Lake Geneva, was killed late Saturday night in a two-car collision at a Fort Atkinson intersection.

Wrecking Crews Move In on Metropolitan After Final Farewell

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera House, scene of an elaborate "final" farewell from the dance world Sunday night and an emotional farewell from the opera company April 16, awaits the wrecking crew at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Sunday night's four-hour farewell program featured the Bolshoi Ballet but began with 40 minutes of lantern slides. John Martin, retired dance critic of the New York Times, narrated the pictures, from the ballerina who danced in the opera's opening night, Oct. 22, 1883, to impresario Sol Hurok in a bit part as a bear tamer.

Soviet Luna 10 Broadcasts Again

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's Luna-10 satellite completed its 284th orbit of the moon today and again transmitted the "Internationale" to earth, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The squeaky-voiced radio signal from the satellite played a recording of the Communist anthem April 4, one day after it went into orbit. It was piped into the Kremlin where 6,000 Russian and foreign delegates were attending the 23rd Soviet Communist party congress.

against the Cao Nung railroad bridge 55 miles northeast of Hanoi.

A military spokesman said the pilot was seen to parachute to the ground but could not be rescued. He was listed as missing in action.

232 Planes Lost

This brought the total number of planes lost over North Viet Nam to 232.

In the ground war, only light skirmishes were reported. Air Force B52s from Guam struck again at the suspected Viet Cong troop concentration area in the C Zone near Cambodia, 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

It was the ninth day in a row that the giant B52s — each carrying a destructive load of 22 tons of explosives — hit an area where the enemy stronghold in support of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's Operation Birmingham.

Other American planes flew 234 sorties over South Viet Nam, striking at Viet Cong troops, camps, river traffic and storage areas. The South Vietnamese air force flew 174 sorties, about half of them night flare drops in support of ground troops.

The pilots who knocked out the missile site northeast of Hanoi reported they set off one large and two smaller secondary explosions, indicating they touched off enemy ammunition and explosives. Returning fliers said smoke from the explosions rose 500 feet.

One of the pilots said he saw a long orange streak shoot across the ground for a quarter of a mile. He said it looked like the engine of a missile on the ground had been ignited and fired the missile across the site.

Thunderchief fighter-bombers also hit the Thai Nguyen railroad yards 35 miles north of Hanoi and reported destroying 12 rail cars, cutting the tracks in eight places and cratering the road yards.

The closest previous penetration to Hanoi was the bombing of the Long Bi power plant again at the suspected Viet Cong troop concentration area in the C Zone near Cambodia, 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

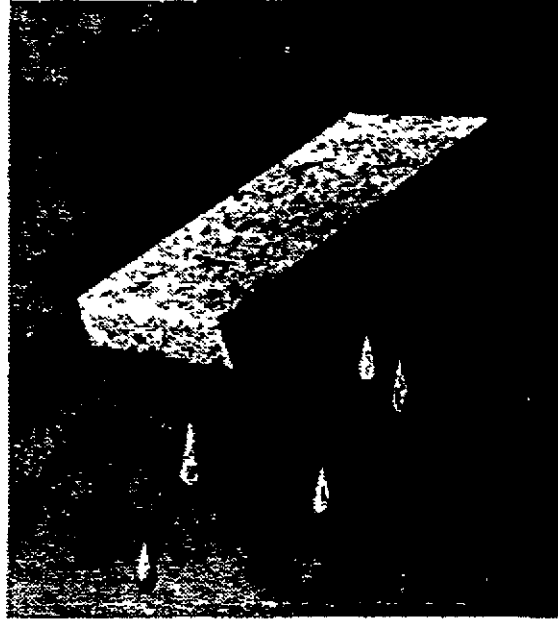

On the ground, the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division reported mopping up operations in the Bong Son coastal area where on Thursday they and Vietnamese troops wiped out a mixed battalion of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

The spokesman reported three more enemy killed by the Americans and seven captured, bringing their total to 278 and 65.

South Vietnamese units earlier reported killing 84 Viet Cong in the operation, known as Dave Crockett.

Censorship Strong Tradition in Ireland

'1984' Absolutely Banned, Movies Get Careful Screening by Laymen

By GODFREY ANDERSON
DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — It may be 1984 before the people of Ireland can legally read George Orwell's book of that name.

The Irish Republic censors books and movies, but not stage plays. There is no censorship of violence or sadism, but a very strong one of sex. A recent movie based on a rape and murder was approved after the word rape had been cut throughout.

The banning of books is almost always on a morality basis and not because they may happen to be anti-Catholic or anti-Irish.

Catholic Tradition
Many Irishmen say some measure of censorship is a good thing but Dublin's literary and university circles oppose any. Some contend that Ireland is in the Dark Ages still.

prejudices are the prejudices of the people. They want some control over what is shown or sold.

Censors Laymen
Most of the censors are laymen but the clergy sometimes speak out too. Some of their voices are liberal in tone.

The Rev. John Kelly, a Jesuit, speaking at a meeting attended by President Eamon de Valera, said:

"If there is anybody here with influence in public affairs — and I believe there is at least one — then I beg him to use that influence to have the ban lifted on George Orwell's '1984' and J.D. Salinger's 'Catcher in the Rye'."

The books are still banned. So are J.P. Donleavy's "The Ginger Man" and Brendan Behan's "Borstal Boy."

Behan broke a censorship rule by telling of service with the Irish Republican Army. Mention of it is banned. Newspapers may refer to it only as an "illegal organization."

um acting out the persecution and assassination of Jean-Paul Marat under the direction of the Marquis de Sade, was recently performed by the Dublin University Players at Trinity College. The Irish Independent's critic called it a pretty revolting mess.

There is no censorship control over Dublin's few night clubs or cabarets. Burlesque strip-teases don't exist.

Make Handy Program Holder And Keep Up With Programs

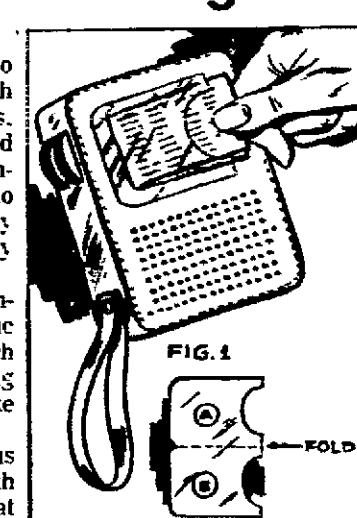

BY CAPPY DICK
If you are a transistor radio fan and like to keep up with the day's musical programs, this fun-project for boys and girls will be useful. It is a method of attaching radio listings to your transistor set where they will be handy for reference any hour of the day.

Figure 1 shows a small transistor with a handmade plastic envelope attached from which the owner of the set is removing yesterday's listings to make way for today's.

The little plastic envelope is fastened to the radio set with transparent tape. It is open at one end, of course, so the listings easily may be placed inside or removed.

Figure 2 shows how to cut the transparent plastic to form the envelope. "A" representing the back and "B" the front. When the piece is folded at the dotted line, it may be taped to the radio along three edges and left untaped at the fingertip end.

With these easy preparations

Attach plastic envelope completed, all you need do is clip the day's program listings fold them and slip them into the plastic holder.

Our problems decrease as we grow older!

True — False —

False. Recent studies of the middle years indicate that there are as many problems to solve then as earlier in life. Middle age is a developmental period in much the same way that childhood and adolescence are. The biggest trouble is that so few of us know what is expected of us in the middle years, or just how to go about finding ourselves as the persons we might become. We say middle-age development is worth the effort.

Mixed marriages — do they work? Can a marriage be successful if the wife and husband have different religious backgrounds? The answers to these and other marital problems can be had in the booklet, "Facing the Facts of Married Life." IRA Mention Banned Mention of the IRA was banned in Ireland on the theory that publicity would inflate its importance. By now, however, the euphemism "an illegal organization" is so widely understood that the ban is virtually meaningless.

Newspapers usually avoid mention of the Northern Ireland government, though that is a matter of preference, not censorship. "The six counties authorities" is the form usually favored in Dublin, where most people consider the six British ruled counties should be joined with the other 26 in a united island.

Despite a widespread myth, works of James Joyce and Oscar Wilde, both native Dubliners, are not banned.

One Dublin editor has a locked filing cabinet full of books which "We could never even dare to review." Most of them are freely on sale in England, just across the Irish Sea.

Ireland's main arbiter of morality in books is Judge Charles Conroy, chairman of the Book Control Board. "1984" Not Discussed

Judge Conroy sits with a board of five members, three of whom must concur in any decision. The judge won't even discuss the question of admitting Orwell's "1984": it was banned by his predecessor.

The board studies books submitted by customs officials, priests or individual citizens. Books can be banned if an obscene or blasphemous passage is found. The whole book does not have to be read before a decision is reached.

Opponents of censorship such as Frank O'Connor who fought the board for 20 years until his recent death, argue the system works unfairly.

Judge Conroy and his men never have to give reasons for banning a book, beyond quoting the appropriate section of the parliamentary law, to suppress the work has a tendency to corrupt.

The grading system for movies can be barred to children under 13 or adolescents under 18.

Informal Censorship
While stage plays are not pre-censored, producers know what the Irish public will stand for. If they go too far, the critics quickly let them know it.

Peter Weiss' "Marat-Sade," showing the inmates of an asylum acting out the persecution and assassination of Jean-Paul Marat under the direction of the Marquis de Sade, was recently performed by the Dublin University Players at Trinity College. The Irish Independent's critic called it a pretty revolting mess.

There is no censorship control over Dublin's few night clubs or cabarets. Burlesque strip-teases don't exist.

One popular performer, Billy Quinn, openly makes fun of local scandals and the government.

The way history is taught in school today, it's almost as fresh as yesterday's front page. If you had kept a file of the paper for last year and the year before that, your youngster would have a head start towards honors in current events.

You can do still better than that. By obtaining a copy of THE WORLD IN 1965 — and, if you didn't get one already, of THE WORLD IN 1964 — you can provide him with an educational tool that will set him apart.

No dry-as-dust yearbook, THE WORLD IN 1965 contains all the facts but recounts in dramatic, telling detail the big events, the interesting events, the significant events, of the year. The quality of the hundreds of news photos, in color and black and white, rivals that of the text.

This big, 288-page, handsome book, costing only $3.35, has been prepared by the world's foremost news gathering agency, The Associated Press, which cooperates with this newspaper in supplying you with the news of the nation and the world.

To obtain your copy of THE WORLD IN 1965, fill out and mail the coupon at once. The book will be ready in February.

Interested in dividends?
New York Life has paid dividends every single year for over 100 years!

More than a century ago we paid our first dividends. Just recently we declared the biggest in our history! Since its founding, New York Life has distributed over three billion dollars in this way — and all of it to policy owners! (Being a mutual company, we don't have any stockholders.) We believe our policy owners have the finest life insurance available. Through dividends, we get this protection at a cost as low as we can provide.

This record may give you some insight into the kind of company your New York Life Agent represents. He'll be proud to tell you more, and to show you the many modern policies New York Life offers. Call him. He's a good man to know!
